Marvelous Record 352 Miles

UNPRECEDENTED TIME
TRIBUTE TO FINE HIGHWAYS

Survey Cars of Constitution,

Unsurpassed in the South, and Show What Good Roads Mean for Georgia Farmers.

Breakfast in Atlanta.
Dinner in Americus.
Supper at or near Moultrie.
Distance, 352 miles.

All this, not by RAILROAD, but by PUBLIC HIGHWAYS, through the heart of Georgia.

This achievement, unprecedented in good roads contests, is the wonderful harvest of the good roads movement in Georgia, inaugurated by The Constitution.

For when three automobiles can pace along dirt highways from Atlanta, in north Georgia, to Moultrie, in far south Georgia, in one day—the cause of good roads has ARRIVED.

That is what happened yesterday, and it is the most spectacular demonstration of progress achieved and progress promised in the phenomenal history of the highway building movement in the south.

This significant feat was accomplished on the first leg of the official survey tour of the round-Georgia good roads automobile tour.

The three cars that worked out this dramatic evidence of good roads in Georgia were:

For The Constitution: A Lozier, furnished by Asa G. Candler, Jr., president of the Atlanta Automobile Association.

For The Chronicle, Augusta: A Speedwell, furnished by The Speedwell Motor Company, Augusta branch.

For The Macon Telegraph: A Vello, furnished by the Vello branch at Macon.

Frank Weldon, chairman of the executive committee of the all-around-the-state tour, who has already gir-dled the 950-mile circuit to be run October 17, was in command of the party.

As the Sun Was Rising.

The big Lozier, with Asa Candler at the wheel, with The Chronicle's Speedwell as a running mate, left The Constitution building at 5:30 yesterday morning, just as the sun was getting well on the job.

The cavalcade trundled out Whitehall street toward College Park and hit the Jonesboro road. Telegrams received later indicate the big machines made the going without a bobble, and that even this early in the day everybody aboard had a "hunch" that records were going to be discarded.

How They Smashed Dope.

Mr. Weldon had doped it out that with good luck they had a fair chance to take supper at Americus, in Sumter county. There was a fighting possibility that the party might even make Albany before it became too dark to

DIES IN SOUTH CAROLINA

L. A. RANSOM.

CAPT. RANSOM DIES SUDDENLY

Attacked by Illness While on Seaboard Train.

Prominent Cotton Oil Man Was En Route to a Meeting of District Managers in Richmond.
He Was Taken Off Train at Greenwood, S. C.

Captain L. A. Ransom, one of the most prominent men in the country in the cotton oil field and extremely popular in social and business circles of Atlanta, is dead.

His sudden end came last night at 11:05 o'clock in Greenwood, S. C., and will be a great surprise and shock to thousands of his friends in this city and in the state.

Captain Ransom was on his way to Richmond to attend a meeting of the district managers of the Southern Cotton Oil Company in Richmond, leaving Atlanta just before noon on Monday by the Seaboard Air Line.

Just before reaching Greenwood,
S. C., he was attacked by cerebral hemorrhage. He had just partaken of a hearty meal and was apparently in the best of health. He was hurried off the train and taken at once to the rooms of F. S. Evans, manager of the Southern Cotton Oil Company, where doctors were summoned and every attention given him.

It was evident from the first that the attack was a serious one, and that his condition was critical. Telegrams were sent to Atlanta and other points advising of his illness.

Late at night a telegram was received in Atlanta by Hoke Smith announcing the death of Mr. Ransom at 11:05 o'clock.

There was no more popular man in the state than Captain Ransom. He was exceedingly well versed in all phases of the cotton oil business and had been greatly honored.

Had Held Many Offices.

He had served as president of the Georgia Cotton Seed Crushers' Association and later of the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' Association.

Recently he had been appointed district manager of the Southern Cotton Oil Company and advertising manager of the company, the office being a very important one.

He was a member of the chamber of commerce and always took a great interest in all affairs of the city looking to its upbuilding. At the last election he was named president of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Club.

The highest honor paid him, however, came shortly before his death, when he was appointed by United States Secretary of State Knox as one of the five delegates to represent the

ATLANTA GATES ARE WIDE OPEN TO ODD FELLOWS

Georgia Welcome Extended the Visitors at the First Session of the Order.

PUBLIC RECEPTION GIVEN AT THE STATE CAPITOL

Gov. Brown, Mayor Maddox and Judge Robert Daniel All Give Cordial Greeting to the Hosts of Odd Fellows Coming From Every Part of the World—Responses Are Made.

A Georgia welcome—a reception, the atmosphere of which was laden with the very essence of that cordiality which has made "Southern Hospitality" famous the world over, a handclasp, so to speak, carrying with it conviction of its sincerity, was yesterday extended by Georgia, Georgia Odd Fellows and Atlanta to the Odd Fellows gathering here from the four corners of the world.

The occasion was a public reception tendered the visitors in the legislative hall of the state capitol when representatives of the state, the city and Georgia's 40,000 Odd Fellows welcomed the most august body of the largest fraternal organization of the world today.

Gay with colors, decked with the flags of more than a score of nations, thronged with prominent Odd Fellows from every state in the union, from Canada and even far-off Australia, the galleries resplendent with the hundred hues of handsomely gowned women, the staid old state house hall presented an appearance at once so magnificent and picturesque as to be long remembered.

Welcome Is Extended.

Nor was the picturesqueness of the occasion by any means lessened when Governor Brown, Mayor Maddox and Judge Robert T. Daniel, all native sons of Georgia, a vote one after another and in tones of honest sincerity and pleasure spoke words of welcome to brothers from those sections which the south once hated and to friends from across the border line of another great country.

And if any further proof that there is no longer any east, west, south or north, at least so far as the I. O. O. F. brotherhood is concerned, it was to be found in abundance in the manner in which those assembled wildly cheered the playing of distinctive southern airs.

There were two bands on hand to dispense music and the assemblage stood in respectful silence while "America," "The Star Spangled Banner," "Der Wacht Am Rhine" and other national airs were played. But it was only when the immortal "Dixie" followed by the hardly less famous "Maryland, My Maryland" went coursing through the legislative corridors that the listeners became thoroughly aroused and sent cheer after cheer resounding through the grim old state house.

Assembly Called to Order.

It was around 9:30 o'clock when John A. Hynds called the assembly to order, and in a few aptly chosen words introduced Grand Master Orrin Rooerts, of Monroe, of the grand lodge of Georgia. Mr. Hynds told of the great work for the order in Georgia Mr. Roo-

culture; Charles Nagel, secretary of commerce and labor; Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury; Jacob McG.
Dickinson, secretary of war; Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior; George von L. Meyer, secretary of the navy. Front row, reading from left to right—G. W. Wickersham, attorney general; P. C. Knox, secretary of state, and President Taft.

Whether Richard A. Ballinger's resignation as secretary of the interior will follow immediately upon the meeting of the cabinet, September 26, to attend which he is now en route from Seattle, or whether he will retain his position indefinitely depends now upon the attitude of his cabinet associates.
Mr. Ballinger is coming to Washing-either of commission or of omission, for which he should be condemned and

PREACHER DECLARED "UNFIT" BECAUSE HE PLAYED BASEBALL

Louisville, Ky., September 19.—Because he played baseball and indulged in other athletic sports which were distasteful to the members of his congregation, the Rev. Arthur Brooks, pastor of the Methodist church at Crestwood, was voted unfit to have charge of the parish by a majority of his flock and yesterday announced to his congregation that he was addressing them for the last time.
One thing apparently against the young preacher, was that he became a member of the Crestwood baseball team. Every Saturday afternoon he played with the local team and with each game the anger of cer-

DR. LUNDY HARRIS TAKES OWN LIFE

Widely Known Churchman and Educator.

As a Result of Ill Health and Despondency He Takes Overdose of Morphine at Pine-log, Ga., Where He Sought Relief in Vain.

Cartersville, Ga., September 19.—
(Special.)—Dr. Lundy H. Harris, of Nashville, Tenn., former assistant secretary of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and one of the most brilliant preachers in the south, died Sunday night at 10 o'clock at the residence of Clarence Anthony at Pine-log, 16 miles from this city. His death was the result of morphine poisoning, and in a letter directed to his host he declared that he had taken the poison with the intention of ending his life.
Three other letters were also found,
one addressed to his wife, Mrs. L. H.
Harris, of Nashville, who has a national reputation as the author of "A Circuit Rider's Wife," a series of charming stories recently published in The Saturday Evening Post; another to his friend, Dr. W. P. Lovejoy, presiding elder of the Dalton district, and one to the coroner of Bartow county. None of the letters have been made public, however, except that which was direct-

SO ROOSEVELT, HARD PRESSED, CRIES TO TAFT

The Colonel Rushes to New Haven for a Conference With the President.

SHADOW OF 1912 COVERED
TAFT-ROOSEVELT MEETING

Taft Says That Roosevelt Sought Conference to Gain Moral Advantage in Fight With "Old Guard"—Meeting
Not Characterized by Old Cordiality—Taft Willing to Run in 1912 if Renominated.

New Haven, Conn., September 19.—
The president and the former president of the United States had a hurried conference in New Haven today on the situation in New York state.
The conference came at Mr. Roosevelt's request and is interpreted as the outcome of a desire for the moral advantages that further evidence of the president's support would bring the Roosevelt leaders in New York state.

Results of the Conference.
Neither Mr. Taft nor Mr. Roosevelt would discuss in detail what they had to say to each other, but these results can be given as apparent.

First, so far as the situation in New York state goes, where there is war between Colonel Roosevelt and the old guard, the president stands squarely on his letter of August 20 to Lloyd C. Griscom, in which he defined his attitude at length.

Second, the shadow of 1912 hung over the meeting, which did not appear to be characterized by the old cordiality between the president and the colonel, recent events operating as a bar to any understanding between the two. The question of the presidency in 1912, however, was not discussed.

Third, the president is willing to

The Autumn Silks

As the new styles of Silks began to rise, months ago, we threw open wide the range of selection, and wherever true originality or beauty appeared orders were placed.

The character, quality and variety of our Silks increase each year as our business history lengthens.

That makes the work of every new season harder than its predecessor. Nevertheless, the clean, clear and complete lead we now have, in the Silk market, is to be more than maintained.

The Stock Is and Will Be by Long Odds the Best We Ever Had. Serious words. We mean for you to take them seriously at their full value. The Silks will make them good—More Than Good.

The author of The Picture of Dorian Gray was the ONE man born with a genius for descriptive writing whose pen could do justice to these delicate and elegant films of cloth. There they are—lustrous in the strong light of a splendid morning in September. Gossamers—mere trifles of substance—woven of threads so fine that one pound of them may be spun out ten miles. But in spite of their lightness they possess marvelous tensile strength. French art in every fold. Patterns of Tartan; dreamy colors of Persia made dreamier and mellower and blushed on fabrics filmy as a spider's web. We are looking at Chiffon Crepes as we write—the etheralized cloth for evening frocks. To dash through these effects in fibre and color that tell of an artist somewhere—of spinners, and designers, and dyers. Bah! a man's pen might gallop on and fail; a woman's eye alone can catch and carry the story. Therefore, we only suggest.

Some of the Chiffon Crepes have shallow festoon borders of strange, exotic florals that never bloomed in the gardens of men. Plain foundations or heightened with bright satin ribbon stripes. You'll like the gaily-colored Dolly Vardens—like them doubly—for their own quaint, old-time charm and because they are called after a Dickens character. The Indian chintz effects inspire unique smiles and appeal for detailed description. Beautiful in many dainty colors, effective in drapery and form. With wild audacity the Paris printers have crossed the Channel and captured the hand-blocked designs of English cretonnes and applied them to Chiffons.

The Chiffon horizon broadens. Bonnie Scotch plaids have been filched and laid on the soft surfaces. Likewise checks and stripes—some of them in sober black-and-white.

Shades of evening—Plain Chiffons and Chiffons bedight with pearly bugles. Shades of evening—ALL OF THEM.

Prices, $1.75 to $5.00 a yard. First cousins to Chiffons—Voile Lorraine—a little more weight, replete with mercurial, rippling draping possibilities—$1.75.

Mousselines, gauzy as a humming-bird's wing—and as transparent—beaded effects—which means that bits of sparkling crystal have been imbedded in them by a process of tremendous pressure. Marquesettes are blood relations of Mousselines—plain, plaided, persianed and spangled—$1.50, $2.25, $3.00.

Satin Cashmere—luminous Satin Cashmere. Nile, tan and other ground-colors overlaid with elaborate damasse-woven plume-and-flower designs, in pastel tints simulating hand-painting. Cameo-like loomwork—brocades bold as Escorial. Think of electric lights playing on a lake of molten metal—a school of dolphins and gold fish catching the evening glow of the sinking sun on a summer's day and you have a hint of these volatile stuffs. The shimmer comes of using warp and weft of different colors and varying degrees of lustre. Their beauty changes every time a shaft of sunshine shifts. They smack of the Rue de la Paix. No wonder. They hail from that prismatic Mecca of modistes and couturiers. Suits, $100.

Taffeta Plaids, 18½ inches wide, 59c. Louisine Plaids, 12 inches wide, 75c. The colors are brilliant—reds, greens, blues over-shot with white and gold lines that tone down the shout of contrast. Their manifest destiny—blouses, waists, petticoats, children's dresses.

Taffeta Persians—19, 20, 24 inches wide, $1.00. Navy, plum, green, apricot and bronze grounds with warp threads forming Kirmanishah designs. Another has shepherd check ground with large squares enclosing palm and kazak effects. There are Indian patterns, too—indescribable.

Messaline and Taffeta flecked with Dresden figures—detached buds and blossoms, 19 inches wide, $1.00.

The Warp-printed Taffetas, 36 inches wide, $1.50; the Messaline Persians, 36 inches wide, $2.00; the Taffeta and Messaline Persians, 20 inches wide, $1.25, are enough to inspire an autumn rhymester or haply to set a callow advertiser to the reckless use of metaphor.

Dentelle Persians, 20 inches wide, $1.50—a jumble of palmy shapes on a melange ground overwoven with Tuscan lace effects in relief.

Repp Persians, 20 inches wide, $1.50. Repp is a beautiful silk. It is not Ottoman. Looks like it. Not Bengaline. Looks like it. Not Poplin. Looks like it. IT IS REPP. Touch it. Soft, limber, facile—how it falls in unresisting folds. The filling is softest silk and finely spun. It is the silk and the spinning that give it the drooping beauty.

Scores of other Silks just received. You'll think of nothing but brilliance, gaiety, the dainty Parisian touch as light and evanescent as dissolving summer fleecy cloud. There is color and gold and silver and flashing stones—too many to think of, much less to tell of.

Part of the value of them is the fact that few are made, and very few reach our zone of the world. What would this sprightly city do without the ONE store where the pretty frivolities of Paris gather?

THREE BALLOONS STILL UP IN AIR

Unless They've Landed at Isolated Places.

New York, Buckeye and Miss Sophia Have Qualified for the International Balloon Race. Some of the Pilots Describe Flights.

Indianapolis, Ind., September 19.—If they have not met with disaster, or landed safely at some isolated spot from which they have not been able to report, these three balloons and their crews have qualified tonight as the American contestants in the international balloon race, which will start at St. Louis, October 17.

New York—Clifford R. Harmon, New York, pilot; Thomas Baldwin, New York, pilot; H. H. W. Cleveland, pilot; A. H. Morgan, Canton, Ohio, pilot; sighted at Charleston, W. Va., 7 p. m. Sunday.

Miss Sophia—W. T. Asman, St. Louis, pilot; T. J. McCullough, St. Louis, pilot; sighted at Pomeroy, Ohio, 8:45 a. m. Sunday.

Nine Balloons Started.

Nine balloons started in the American elimination race at the Indianapolis Speedway Saturday afternoon. Four started in a free-for-all contest, and all of them are down. The sixth of the starters in the elimination to night was the America II, which landed at Warrenton, Va., at 2:20 o'clock this afternoon.

Allen R. Hawley, New York, was the pilot and Augustus Post New York, the aide.

Stories of the flight told by the pilots of the balloons which have landed are beginning to come to Indianapolis. Carl G. Fisher, who, with George L. Bumbaugh, was in the India II, wires from Pittsburgh as follows:

"We passed all but Hawley, in America II, Saturday night during a storm that blew great guns. In the storm our drag rope caught in a tree top and held us two hours, during which four balloons went by at great speed. We finally aroused a farmer, who, with his son, came to our aid in a drenching rain. They climbed the tree and cut us loose, then we proceeded, treestand on."

He Describes Flight.

Louis Von Paul, who piloted the Million Populair balloon, of St. Louis, assisted by Joseph O'Reilly, described his trip as follows:

"We had been in the air only a short time when the rain hampered us. We were going the direction of the great lakes, then we struck a current that sent us south at a merry clip, but the rain continued, and we were soaked. We threw out ballast and sought a higher altitude. I think we crossed the Ohio river near Warrenton, Ohio.

"The night was the most remarkable I have ever spent. Neither of us slept much—we did not want to. Our highest altitude was 5,500 feet. When the sun came out yesterday morning our worst trouble began. We would run through clouds for a while, then the sun would break and the gas would expand and cause us to shoot upward for a time, then the rain would send us down again. If we could have had fair weather we would have broken records. At one time we sighted six balloons, but when we came down there was only one balloon in sight."

NEGRO SNATCHES PURSE FROM YOUNG WOMAN

Miss Lillian Crosswhite Robbed at the Corner of Richardson and Cooper Sts.

Under the bright glare of the arc light on the corner of Richardson and Cooper streets, and in full view of many spectators seated on the porches of neighboring houses, an unknown negro succeeded in snatching a purse from Miss Lillian Crosswhite, a public stenographer, who works in 544 North Boulevard.

When the sun came out yesterday morning our worst trouble began. We would run through clouds for a while, then the sun would break and the gas would expand and cause us to shoot upward for a time, then the rain would send us down again. If we could have had fair weather we would have broken records. At one time we sighted six balloons, but when we came down there was only one balloon in sight."

MONTGOMERY FAVORS THE COMMISSION PLAN

Montgomery, Ala., September 19.—(Special.)—Voters of Montgomery today decided for a commission form of city government, the poll being 5 to 1 in the affirmative. By almost as large a majority the citizens spoke for abolishing the justices of the peace and establishing in lieu of them inferior criminal court. Each proposition carried every vote, the poll being 1,735 for commission government and 382 against. 1,514 for abolishing the justices and 368 against.

These votes were in a primary of the democracy of the city and will serve to inform the legislature what the people desire. Bills will be drawn and passed in line with the wishes so expressed. There was no organized opposition to either proposition.

At the same time the regular city election was held, electing W. A. Gunter, Jr., mayor; Ira Virgin, president of the council, and James Gallagher, police commissioner. These were named without opposition, having been nominated with two aldermen from each ward in a hot primary some weeks ago.

Denial by Attell.

Milwaukee, Wis., September 19.—Abe Attell, denied having been matched to fight Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion, at San Francisco on October 31. Attell says Wolgast wants 40 per cent of the gross receipts to Attell's 15. The only conditions upon which Attell is willing to meet the champion is on even division of the purse.

FAIR AND WARMER IS PROMISED TODAY

Slightly warmer weather is scheduled for Atlanta Tuesday. The atmospheric disturbance which prevailed over the northwest for several days and which caused a considerable slump in the temperature in Atlanta has subsided to a very noticeable extent.

Fair weather prevailed throughout the southern states yesterday and a continuation of the fair weather is promised for today.

The highest temperature recorded yesterday was 80 degrees at 2 o'clock.

Atropos of a little incident which occurred a few days ago The Gopher, after much effort, has succeeded in producing the following rhyme:

There was a young lady who had planned to go wade,
And the plans for the trip were complete;
But when she found out a kodak
Would be used on the day,
She was suddenly seized with "cold feet."

"Cold feet," said The Gopher in explanation, "is used for the purpose of making the thing rhyme and because that is the only rhyme I know that fits the case in question."

"This young lady had agreed to go wading with a party of friends, male and female. When she discovered that one of the boys was taking along a camera, she declared she had just been to the dentist and couldn't think of going. extant and as a result there is warmer weather beyond the Mississippi river which is exerting its influence over Atlanta and vicinity.

Fair weather prevailed throughout the southern states yesterday and a continuation of the fair weather is promised for today.

The highest temperature recorded yesterday was 80 degrees at 2 o'clock.

Atropos of a little incident which occurred a few days ago The Gopher, after much effort, has succeeded in producing the following rhyme:

There was a young lady who had planned to go wade,
And the plans for the trip were complete;
But when she found out a kodak
Would be used on the day,
She was suddenly seized with "cold feet."

"Cold feet," said The Gopher in explanation, "is used for the purpose of making the thing rhyme and because that is the only rhyme I know that fits the case in question."

GIRL HALF-MAD WITH JEALOUSY

How Dr. Crippen Made Ethel Leneve Suffer.

He Had Promised to Marry Her and She Waited Impatiently for Him to Keep His Promise. She Said Crippen Promised to Get Divorce.

London, September 19.—Something of what Ethel Clare Leneve suffered as, half mad with jealousy, she impatiently waited the fulfillment of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen's promise to make her his wife, was revealed at today's session of the inquest into the death of Belle Elmore, with the murder of whom the doctor and his typist are jointly charged.

In her distress Miss Leneve confided in her landlady, Mrs. Jackson, and the story that the latter told on the witness stand introduced the most sensational evidence into the trial at the preliminary trial.

Says She Was to Marry Crippen.

Mrs. Jackson said that the accused girl gave up the room which she had occupied at the home of the witness on March 12, explaining that she was leaving, to be married to Dr. Crippen.

Until the first week in February Miss Leneve had slept regularly at Mrs. Jackson's. After that she stopped at the house only occasionally. She said that she spent the other nights at the homes of friends. On one occasion Miss Leneve mentioned having been at the Hill Top Crescent home of the Crippens, early in February, to help the doctor in a search for a book bank which showed an account of $1,000. She added that a diamond tiara and rings had been found in the house and that the doctor had raised $500 on these.

About the middle of February, the witness said, Miss Leneve appeared miserable and depressed. Such was her state that Mrs. Jackson followed the girl to her room to learn, if possible, the source of her trouble. Miss Leneve, the witness said, was in a terrifying state of agitation. Her eyes seemed fairly starting out of her head. The landlady insisted upon an explanation, telling the girl that she must have something to put her mind to be in such a condition.

Dr. Crippen Caused Her Trouble.

"Would you be surprised if I told you that it was the doctor and Miss Elmore? It was the cause of my trouble when you first saw me. She is his wife, and when I see them go away together it makes me realize my position as to what she is and what I am."

Mrs. Jackson asked: "What is the use of you worrying about another man's husband?" To this Miss Leneve answered: "Miss Elmore has been threatening to go away with another man. Dr. Crippen has been waiting for her to do so, when he would divorce her."

Solicitor Newton, who is looking out for the interests of Crippen and Miss Leneve, suggested that her lodger's excitement was due to the landlady having resurrected a trouble which the girl experienced during her earlier association with Crippen; but the witness maintained the correctness of her evidence as given.

Sex of the Victim.

Professor Pepper, the pathologist, repeated the testimony which he had given at the trial in the Bow street court. In response to questions by the coroner, he said:

"I can form no definite opinion as to whether the parts found were those of a male or female. The suggestion that they were from the body of a female. I have formed a very strong opinion. If it were the hair discovered into consideration, there is a strong presumption, almost conclusive, that the parts were those of a woman."

J. FRANK STOCKDELL MADE ASST MANAGER

W. L. Reynolds, vice president and manager of the Interstate Fire Insurance Company of Birmingham, announces the appointment of J. Frank Stockdell as assistant manager of the company; the appointment to take effect October 1.

Mr. Stockdell has been connected with the southern department of the Phoenix Insurance of Brooklyn for 25 years; for the last ten years holding the title of assistant manager. He has had a vast experience in the insurance business, which will make him a most valuable addition to the Interstate company.

Great Torchlight Parade.

Mexico City, September 19.—A torchlight procession in which six thousand persons participated was a spectacular feature here on the centennial of independence celebration. The marchers carried lanterns of triangular shape, and the procession was strictly in line. It was reviewed by President Diaz at the national palace.

For Obligatory Arbitration.

Boston, September 19.—An unlimited treaty of obligatory arbitration between the United States and Great Britain is the hope of the American Peace Society as a result of the proposition that the two countries join in 1914 in a celebration to observe the completion of 100 years of peace between them.

WOMEN

If you have a listless, tired, worn-out feeling, headaches, nervousness, dull aches and pains in your back and hips or a sense of weakness when on your feet, discharges, etc., you can depend upon it that there is a deep-seated disorder at the bottom of your trouble; a derangement that you may never have completely overlooked.

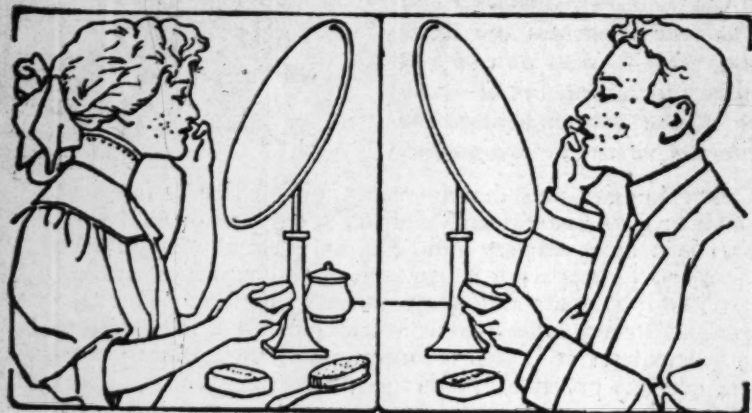

If the trouble was of such a nature that it attacked your sensitive nerves and gave you severe pain you would perhaps regard it of more importance and seek for prompt relief. But do not forget that it is doing you just as much harm and damaging your nervous system as much as though you felt it. It is affecting those nerves which regulate the function of your pelvic organs and doing you more damage than though it caused pain. Such symptoms indicate that something is wrong. Neglect aids the progress of your disease and a breaking down of your health and strong constitution. Write at once about your illness. Or if possible call at our office for a personal consultation. SIXTY I. O. O. F. HOMES IN THE UNITED STATES

Heads of Many of Them Held Important Meeting at the Piedmont.

Superintendents, matrons, trustees and secretaries of the Odd Fellow asylums scattered throughout the country for the care of widows, orphans and indigent members, met yesterday morning at the Piedmont hotel convention hall and organized in the interest of a better management of the homes.

About twenty-five representatives were present from the states of Texas, Virginia, Indiana, Illinois, South Dakota, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Kansas and Connecticut. The meeting was called to order by Grand Representative Hill Montague, of Richmond, Va.

After naming Superintendent Lucas, of Illinois, chairman of the organization; Mrs. Lewis, matron of the Indiana home, secretary, and Grand Secretary Wilkinson, of Missouri, vice president, the meeting adjourned until 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

There are over sixty of these homes in the United States.

ODD FELLOWS' MEMBERSHIP PASSES THE 2,000,000 MARK

JOHN B. COCKRUM,
Deputy grand sire of the sovereign grand lodge of Odd Fellows, who will be elevated to the position of grand sire at the election held today.

JOHN B. GOODWIN,
Grand secretary of Odd Fellows, who will be re-elected at today's session.

That the present membership of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows has passed the 2,000,000 mark is one of the features shown in the report presented yesterday by Grand Secretary John B. Goodwin before the sovereign grand lodge. The report also shows that in the year 1909 the sum of $3,356,925.89 was expended for relief; that the total receipts of subordinates aggregated $16,827,728.66 and that the total invested sums of subordinate and grand bodies of the order amounted to $53,156,910.14.

After going into the minutest statistical details in his report, Mr. Goodwin concludes as follows:

"During the past year good work has been done and progress made in every branch of the order, and this notwithstanding the adverse conditions resulting from the slowness of recovery from the financial stringency. Each branch has added to the membership and the relief work commanded by the law and organization of Odd Fellowship has been well and faithfully performed, as indicated by the expenditures on this account of more than $3,000,000.

Big Increase in Receipts.
"The total receipts of the various organizations of the order increased nearly $500,000 over the preceding year and the assets of grand and subordinate bodies were increased over $3,000,000.

"At the end of 1909 there were only 47,572 less than 2,000,000 members, and from unofficial information received in regard to activity and progress in the work during the last eight months it appears certain that the 2,000,000 membership mark has now been reached, including brothers of subordinate lodges and sisters of Rebekah lodges.

"Should the percentage of net increase in membership for the next nine years be equal to that for the last nine years the order would have on that great occasion 3,000,000 members and corresponding growth in expenditures for relief work and in assets."

Report of Georgia Secretary.

T. H. Robertson, grand secretary of Georgia, in his advance report says: "Measured by the net increase in membership, the past year is not quite up to last year, but conditions throughout the state are very encouraging. Our growth indicates a healthy condition throughout the fraternal body and the spirit of peace, harmony and good fellowship that prevails promises continued growth and prosperity. The officers' advance reports to the grand lodge show 491 lodges with a membership of more than 36,000."

ODD FELLOWS NAME NEW LEADERS TODAY

Interest in the Odd Fellows' convention centers today in the election of officers and the adoption of the next convention city.

John B. Cockrum, of Indiana, present deputy grand sire, is slated for promotion to the office of grand sire, while to succeed him there are three candidates contesting. They are R. T. Daniel, of Griffin, Ga.; C. A. Keller, of Texas, and Hill Montague, of Virginia. John B. Goodwin, of Baltimore, will in all probability be renominated as grand secretary, and M. B. Richards Muckle, of Philadelphia, is slated for reelection to the office of grand treasurer. Mr. Muckle is 85 years old, and has been grand treasurer of the grand lodge of Pennsylvania for fifty-six years.

The grand chaplain, the grand marshal, the grand guardian and the grand messenger will be appointed by the newly elected grand sire at the close of the session.

It is stated that for a next convention city, some eastern city will be chosen, although what city it will be is very uncertain, as there has up to now been no indication of a contest among cities for the honor.

RECEPTION GIVEN TO ODD FELLOWS

An informal reception at the Piedmont Driving Club was given to the Sovereign Grand Lodge, military council, grand secretaries, past grand representatives, members of the fraternal press and ladies yesterday afternoon by the Odd Fellows of Atlanta.

There were between two and three hundred present, among them being the wives of the members of the grand lodge, and leading Rebekahs.

A light luncheon was served in open air, and during this time Wedemeyer's band fendered old time songs, popular waltzes, and selections from the operas.

Everything possible was done to make the visitors at home. There were no addresses made, and no attempt at impromptu speeches. The reception was given in order that every one might become acquainted, and before the afternoon was over this was accomplished.

John A. Hynds, one of the most prominent Odd Fellows in the state, had charge of the reception, and received many compliments for the fine manner in which all arrangements were carried out.

ODD FELLOWS BUSY WITH DEGREE WORK

Large Crowds Attend the Contests at Different Halls Engaged.

Degree contests took up a great part of the time of the visiting Odd Fellows yesterday. As this work is one of the most interesting things of the convention, there were large crowds present at the contests held at the Orpheum, the Auditorium-Armory, Taft hall and in the Odd Fellows' hall.

The Rebekah teams held contests last night at the Odd Fellows' hall, on the corner of Alabama and Broad streets. These teams were as follows: Colfax Rebekah staff, No. 43, of Knoxville, and the Chattanooga Rebekah staff, No. 77. The first drill came off at 8 o'clock and the second at 10 o'clock. This afternoon the contests will close with degree work by Magnolia, No. 120, staff, of Fort Worth, Texas; Olive Branch, No. 10 staff, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Miriam Rebekah No. 7 staff, of Columbus, Ga. The two first mentioned will hold their contests in the afternoon and the last at 8 o'clock p. m.

First Degree Contests.

First degree contests of the Odd Fellows started at the Orpheum in the afternoon and will also be concluded tonight. Lookout lodge, No. 250, of Chattanooga, Tenn., drilled at 4:30 o'clock and was followed by Indianapolis lodge No. 465 of Indianapolis, Ind., at 6:30 o'clock; Grace lodge, No. 85, of Portsmouth, Va., at 8 p. m.; Mystic Circle lodge, No. 520, of Buffalo, N. Y., today at 9 a. m. Blue Ribbon lodge, No. 205, of Asheville, will start the contests. At 11 a. m. Meni lodge, No. 217, of Trenton, N. J., goes on and is followed by Columbia lodge, No. 1, Washington, D. C., at 2:30 p. m.; Eden lodge, No. 34, of Wilmington, Del., at 4:30 p. m.; Oak Cliff lodge, No. 378, of Dallas, Texas, at 8 p. m., and Tennessee lodge, No. 1, Nashville, Tenn., at 10 p. m.

Work in the second degree started at the Auditorium-Armory yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Indianapolis lodge No. 465, of Indianapolis, Ind., going on first. Then came the following: Blue Ridge lodge No. 205, of Asheville, N. C., at 4:30 o'clock; Mystic Circle lodge No. 520, of Buffalo, N. Y., at 6:30 o'clock; Columbia lodge No. 1, Washington, D. C., at 8:30 o'clock; Oak Cliff lodge No. 378, of Dallas, Texas, at 10:30 o'clock, and Piedmont lodge No. 190, of Atlanta, closed. The following will be done by Temple No. 74, of Wilmington, Del., at 10 a. m. In the Golden Rule lodge, degree took place in the Taft hall at the Auditorium. Temple No. 100, of Philadelphia, Ind., at 8 p. m. Work will be done in this degree by International No. 131, of Buffalo, N. Y., at 11 a. m. today.

Two teams did contest work in the Royal Purple degree in the Taft hall. International No. 121, of Buffalo, N. Y., went on at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and Fred D. Stewart No. 7, of Washington, D. C., at 10 p. m. Work in his degree today will be done by Temple No. 100, of Philadelphia, at 9 a. m.; Asheville No. 2, of Asheville, at 4 p. m.; and Metropolitan No. 5, of Indianapolis, 8 p. m.

All contests are secret, the public being excluded.

On Wednesday night the judges will announce the teams of the winning teams in all of these contests, and also the prizes.

Degree work is one of the features of all convocations of the Odd Fellows, and there are several lodges that always send crack teams to the meetings to carry away the prizes and honors.

FRATERNAL PRESS WILL HOLD MEETING TODAY

There will probably be called some time during today a meeting of the fraternal press of the sovereign grand lodge of Odd Fellows. There are over twenty editors here from the different jurisdictions.

The editors were to have met on Monday at a special session to take up matters concerning their work, but W. S. Johnson, of Toronto, the president, wired that he would not be able to attend and the meeting went over. J. M. Patton, of Sioux Falls, S. D., who is the junior president of the fraternal press, will call the meeting.

ODD FELLOWS OF DEKALB BUSY AS ENTERTAINERS

J. E. Bodenhamer and P. H. Bell are in Charge of Headquarters.

While the Atlanta lodges are doing all in their power to entertain the visiting Odd Fellows, DeKalb county is right up in front.

These lodges have established headquarters in the Odd Fellows' hall, on the corner of Alabama and Broad streets, and every effort is being made to see that the visitors have a good time, are shown the city, given good hotel accommodations, good food and good—well, the male members are being introduced into the different clubs. J. E. Bodenhamer and P. H. Bell are in charge of the headquarters and invite all Odd Fellows to make them a visit.

The DeKalb county delegation expects to make a great show in the parade on Wednesday and believes that it will have 700 in line. This is going to be one of the features of the procession and everybody is notified in advance to look out for them.

Shoes for Misses and Children---

Ladies' Shoe Department at Muse's

The information that we have one of the best departments devoted to Ladies' Shoes is rapidly reaching the people of Atlanta and thruout the state.

We are pleased with the demonstration of this coming to us every day.

We would particularly emphasize the care that we give to the lines for young ladies and children.

And now that education is the present thought in the minds of the young, we have thought to prepare for other development—the Foot Form Shoe being that wise provision.

The Shoes that we fit are the Shoes that do fit; that being a chief consideration in Shoes for the young.

The line includes all leathers—patent, dull kid and tan Russia; and the price range is

REPORT OF THE GRAND SIRE TO SOVEREIGN GRAND LODGE

One of the most interesting reports rendered was that of W. L. Kuykendall, grand sire and commander-in-chief of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, in which he gave the condition of the order, and explained his action in attacking certain orders, calling them illegal.

In regard to the condition of the order he said: "At the close of last year the condition of the order as reported from all parts of the world was as follows:

Subordinate membership, December 31, 1909, 1,534,086
Encampment membership, December 31, 1909, 217,533
Rebekah lodge membership, December 31, 1909, 633,615

Balance on hand July 31, 1910, $52,533 80

"Considering the fact that financial depression still exists to some extent, the foregoing numerical and financial statement is very flattering and is an evidence of the high standing of our order has reached among the people of every land in which it has been successfully introduced.

Orders Called Illegal.
Probably the most interesting part of the report is that dealing with the action taken by the grand sire in the cases of "The Ladies Militant," "Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection," "The Imperial Order of Muscovites," and the "Improved Order of Muscovites." According to the report, these orders are not subordinate to "this grand body," and have adopted or appropriated the uniform, regalia, emblems, name, title, motto, or initials of this order. The sovereign grand lodge passed a resolution to the effect that any member guilty of belonging to orders which fall under the above category shall be expelled. This resolution was aimed at the Ladies Militant, and in a proclamation issued by the grand sire, he states that the law applies with equal if not greater force to each of the orders above named, and warns all members of the Odd Fellows who are members of any of them to withdraw or suffer expulsion from the ranks of the Odd Fellows.

Much of the report deals with this order, and with the report that an attempt will be made to bring the matter up at this meeting, either openly or by the gum-shoe route.

In regard to several other orders with which the grand sire has been called upon to deal, he says:
"I herewith submit a copy of the constitution of The Althea Fraternity, another new candidate for honors as an order, or Odd Fellows Club, in all the male colleges, academies, etc., of our country, in which a charter was accepted. I am not aware of any such seats of learning so far removed from lodge rooms that students, professors

WARM WELCOME IS GIVEN TO PATRIARCHS MILITANT

In the senate chamber at the state capitol yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock, the military council of the Patriarchs Militant, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, held its first session of the convention. The session was executive.

The welcome address in behalf of the city of Atlanta was delivered by City Attorney James L. Mayson, who was introduced by M. A. Raney, general commanding.

Mr. Mayson's warm welcome to the members of the order was received with enthusiastic applause. The response in behalf of the council was made by Brigadier General James Henry Harris, department commander of the state of Illinois.

DRILLS OF CANTONS FEATURE OF TODAY

Canton drills are one of the big features of the program of the Odd Fellows today.

These drills, however, will not take place at the Auditorium-Armory, as previously announced, but at the baseball park at Ponce de Leon, and will be open to the public.

There are seven cantons to take part in the drills, being as follows: Washington, Toronto, Detroit, Toledo, Marion, Ind.; Asheville, Chattanooga and Brunswick. These are divided into classes "A," "B" and "C." Class "A" will drill in the morning, starting at 10 o'clock; the others in the afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

Prices for the Drill.
The list of prizes for these drills is as follows: Class A, minimum canton, 24 chevalliers, 3 officers—First prize, $1,000; second, $500. Class B, minimum canton, 18 chevalliers, 3 officers—First prize, $700; second, $300. Class C, minimum canton, 12 chevalliers and three officers—First prize, $200; second, $100.

The judges of these contests will be Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, Captain Hendrix and Captain Kemp, all of the Fifth regiment of the national guard. The prizes will not be awarded until Wednesday night, at which time names of all winners in all contests will be given out to the public.

Degree Contest Prizes.
Prizes in the degree contests are as follows: First prize, Subordinate Lodges, $500; second, $200. Second degree, Subordinate Lodges, first prize, $500; second, $200. Golden Rule Degree Encampments, first prize, $500; second, $200. Purple Degree Encampments, first prize, $500; second, $200. Prizes for the Rebekah Degree, first, $400; second, $300; third, $100.

Captain Hall Honored.
After the awarding of the prizes for degree work, for drills and best showing made in the parade, will be the conferring upon Captain H. C. Hall, of Canton Dixie No. 5, the grand degree of Chivalry by Grand Sire Kuykendall.

Captain Hall is the only Odd Fellow in Georgia upon whom this honor will be conferred. It is regarded as one of the highest honors within the power of the organization to give any of its members. He is given this degree because of long and faithful service.

ERRATIC CAREER ENDS FOR CLARENCE LANDRAN

Young Naval Officer Enters the Government Asylum for the Insane.

Washington, September 19.—The doors of the government asylum for the insane have closed upon Private Clarence E. Landran, Sixty-ninth company, coast artillery corps, thereby terminating an erratic career.

For some time the public was treated to stories of the young naval officer who could not be fully identified, but was being held mysteriously under arrest by military authorities in Castle William, in New York harbor. This was Landran, who really was a naval officer. He was from Kentucky, a graduate of the naval academy, and had resigned as an ensign in 1905.

Why he resigned his commission to enlist afterwards as a private soldier, to desert from Fort Monroe last March and then to surrender voluntarily at a Brooklyn recruiting station, the military authorities do not know to guess. But his friends in Louisville and Washington were convinced that his mind was unbalanced, so they had a medical board appointed which has confirmed their judgment.

number of cantons to form a council; so you can readily see that it works a hardship on the department commander as well as the cantons. However, I expect to make the visits and get the name out of my own funds with the hope that soon we will be able to create a treasury of our own."

ATLANTA GATES AJAR FOR THE ODD FELLOWS

Mr. Roberts' introduction of Governor Joseph M. Brown, who delivered an address of welcome in behalf of the state, was brief but most effective.

The chief executive was widely cheered as he rose to speak. He said that I do that the membership of your order in Atlanta comprises our best and most patriotic citizens I can but believe that the delegates from other cities and other climes represent the highest type of good citizenship in the respective places from whence they come; and Atlanta is proud to have you within our gates, and we hope that your stay will be as pleasant to you as it is sure to be profitable to us.

Secretary Goodwin.
"If I might single out from this distinguished gathering one of your number and call him by name, I would mention the name of your grand secretary, Hon. John B. Goodwin. We are all glad to welcome him back to his native state and to his old home, where he was twice mayor of the city. As one of the purpose of this office, I desire to personally extend to him a warm welcome. And in doing this I may tell you gentlemen that while he occupied the mayor's chair in Atlanta he gave to her service the same conscientiousness, energy, integrity and ability which I am sure he now gives to the duties of his present high and responsible office.

"I feel sure that the coming of your grand secretary to this city to show fraternity in 1874 did much to show to the unkind feeling for the citizens in other parts of this republic; that we were loyal to the union, and that we desired and deserved the friendship of all mankind.

Significance of Gathering.
"I can see a deeper meaning to such annual conventions of international order than the mere passing of a pleasant week amid congenial surroundings. I believe the gathering in different parts of the world of such good men can do much toward preserving peace and good will among all the nations of the earth than battleships, standing armies or even peace conferences can ever accomplish.

"I am sure you will share with us the pride we feel in the progress of our city since you were last our guests. We have grown from a village of about 20,000 to a metropolis of 155,000, and have a valuation of $115,000,000. Our postoffice receipts and building record exceed those of any other city in the south. We are educating in our public schools 30,000 American citizens. Our residence streets are lined with beautiful homes, and towering above our marts of trade are the finest office buildings to be found in any city three times our size; and throughout the 36 square miles of our territory 325 churches attest the power of heavenward bearing silent testimony to our faith in a home at last beyond the stars."

In Behalf of Georgia Odd Fellows.
Judge Robert T. Daniel, of Griffin, made an address of welcome on behalf of the Odd Fellows of the state. His talk was a most able one. In part he said:

"In the many happy years of my life no event comes to me crowned with more gladness than this occasion. It is indeed a glorious privilege to extend a welcome to Georgia—Georgia a fair land and the eyes of Israel's prophets ever saw.

"We welcome you to our fields of snowy cotton, to our broad acres of waving corn, to our crystal rivers and to our glowing sunset, the fairest nature's hand ever painted.

"The governor welcomed you in the name of our great state. I welcome you in the name of the Odd Fellows of Georgia. Since the news was flashed to us a year ago that this body was to meet here this year we have been looking forward to this occasion. I for one, however, have found the pleasure keener than the expectation. The Odd Fellows of Georgia have come joyously from every section of the state, happy in their expectation of meeting you and asking only to be allowed to serve you.

"Every member of the order is a link in the chain which circles the earth. The chain is made weaker or stronger by the strength or weakness of the individual member. The Georgia links in this chain, I am proud to say, are of the right kind. And they are 46,999

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine.

Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to INSIST upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and derangements, giving rise to frequent headache, backache, dragging-down pain or distress and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nerve and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Favorite Prescription." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. To him it's only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

SENIOR ARMY OFFICERS TO TAKE ANNUAL RIDE

Officers Will Traverse Route From Washington to Rockville, Md.

Washington September 19.—The annual ordeal for army officers who have grown more or less physically unfit in their arduous careers in the war department is due to start on October 1-15 and 15-17. This is the yearly horserack ride which former President Roosevelt enjoined upon all officers of the rank of major and above. The junior officers are relieved from the ride because their daily duties impose much more physical exercise upon them.

The ride will be by a circuitous route from Washington, to Rockville, Md. A stop-over night will be made at that point. The party then will ride northward half a day and return without stop to Washington. Major General Wood, chief-of-staff, will head one of the parties.

A week later, a few officers, who, from the nature of their duties, have been exempted from the riding test, will walk 20 miles as a substitute.

Fowler Recently Indicted for Conspiracy to Restrain Trade.

Chicago, September 19.—Witnesses whose testimony is said to be for the purpose of bringing an indictment against a New York meat packer were heard by the federal grand jury today.

Judge Landis, in the United States district court, entered a continuance until October 25 of the testimony in cases against George A. Willett, William W. Shaw and W. A. Helander, employees of Armour & Co. The charge against these men arose out of the destruction of shortbread, not demanded of Armour & Co., by the grand jury.

Francis A. Fowler, department manager for Swift & Co., who was recently indicted, furnished bonds in the sum of $30,000 today.

Ed Sherrod and J. F. Hewitt Shot From Ambush and Killed.

Huntsville Tenn. September 19.—Ed Sherrod and J. F. Hewitt were shot from ambush at Cook's camp, 20 miles north of Huntsville, and killed. Six suspects are now in the Scott county jail. Those arrested are John Bunch and son, Joe Low, Nelson Low, Jack Low and Jack Bradley. The killing is supposed to have been a sequel to the killing of Riley Low three months ago by Hewitt. It is alleged that Sherrod and Hewitt were prominent citizens of Scott county.

ODD FELLOWS GET TO WORK AT ONCE

Business Session Follows
Welcome Addresses.

All Grand Representatives and Officers Present but One, Who Was Detained by Illness. Grand Sire Kuykendall May Be Governor of Wyoming.

At the first regular business session of the present Odd Fellows' convention which was held in the legislative hall of the capitol yesterday morning, immediately after the public reception, a considerable amount of routine work was done. A large part of this had to do with the organization of the body for work, appointing on credentials, filing sessional appointments, reading reports and the like. Reports of the grand sires, the grand secretary, the adjutant general and the grand secretary were presented and distributed. The session was adjourned early in the afternoon, to be resumed at 9 o'clock this morning.

A large number of resolutions looking to amendments to the charter of the Sovereign Grand Lodge were introduced, but action on all save one of these was indefinitely postponed. This one provided for a change in the constitution allowing the establishment of a tuberculosis hospital and its maintenance by the Sovereign Grand Lodge. Action in this matter was postponed until the report of a committee appointed last year to look into this matter can be heard. It is thought probable that steps looking to the establishment of the hospital will be taken if the report of the committee pronounces the plan feasible.

Only One Absence.
When the business session began not one of the 210 representatives were absent and only one officer, Grand Marshal R. L. Pillsbury, of Massachusetts, whose resignation was tendered because ill health prevented his attending the meeting. S. A. Reed, of Vermont, was appointed to fill Mr. Pillsbury's place during the present session.

The other officers appointed for the session were: John M. Patton, of South Dakota, official reporter; L. F. Hart, of Tacoma, Wash., journal clerk; Richard Hoe, of Milwaukee, mass clerk.

Besides the representatives and officers there were in attendance at the meeting all of the living past grand sires, except Robert E. Wright, of Altona, Pa., who was too ill to attend. Resolutions of regret and sympathy were passed at the morning session and were wired to Mr. Wright.

May Become Governor.
Among the representatives and officers of the Sovereign Grand Lodge are a number of gentlemen of national repute. Grand Sire W. L. Kuykendall is one of the best known men of his state, Wyoming, and it is stated that he

MAY USE THE CITY HALL FOR GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL

Important matters came before the general council yesterday afternoon in regard to the public schools. Councilman Chambers introduced a resolution setting aside the present city hall as a girls' high school when the old postoffice is occupied as a city hall. This matter was referred to the board of education.

Councilman Chambers offered a resolution to sell the present stockade property, all but 10 acres and the buildings, and to use the 10 acres and buildings as a technological school for the Boys' High School. This went to the board of education for its approval. A communication from the board of education was read, in which it was shown that because of the overflow in the schools more money was needed. Alderman Grant introduced a resolution to take care of the emergency, which was adopted by council. The resolution provides for $5,500 for the public schools as follows: $2,700 for the teachers' payroll, $1,300 for rent of the school buildings, $1,500 for additional desks and school furniture.

ASKS BUSINESS HOUSES TO CLOSE FOR HALF DAY
Mayor Maddox Issues Proclamation on the Odd Fellows' Parade.
In order to allow as many as possible of the Atlanta Odd Fellows to take part in the pageant of Wednesday afternoon, Mayor Robert F. Maddox has issued a proclamation closing the city hall on Wednesday between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Mayor Maddox also requests all the business houses in the city to allow their employees a recess during those hours.

MOTHER ASKS $40,000 FOR DEATH OF TWO SONS

Because her two sons were drowned in the lake at Piedmont Park, Mrs. Theresa G. Hoffman has asked the city to pay her the sum of $40,000. A petition to that effect was presented to the general council yesterday afternoon and referred to the claims committee. She states that her two sons, Adolph, aged 8, and Hubert, aged 7, were drowned in Piedmont Park lake on Sunday, September 4. Mrs. Hoffman claims that her boys went to a place of public resort owned and controlled by the city of Atlanta, and that through the negligence of the city authorities, by not providing danger signals, they waded into the water over their depth and were drowned.

stands a most excellent chance of securing the democratic nomination for governor of his state. His friends state that in case of his nomination, his election is practically assured. Mr. Kuykendall is also grand secretary of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Wyoming.

Grove L. Johnson, one of the most noted lawyers of California, and father of Hiram Johnson, the republican nominee for governor of California, is also a member of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, while T. A. Bell, a past representative, is the democratic nominee for governor of the same state. W. H. Cox, another member of the grand lodge, is lieutenant governor of Kentucky.

Besides these, there are scores of others who rank among the most foremost business and professional men of not only their states, but their sections as well.

COURTLAND WINN SPEAKS IN NINTH

Asks the Support of Members of Ward Improvement Club.

The Ninth Ward Improvement Club held an ice cream festival last night in the grove on Leggett's avenue, about 250 being present and thoroughly enjoying the occasion.

The feature of the evening was a speech made by Courtland S. Winn, asking the support of the club in the coming mayoralty race. An enthusiastic reception was accorded Mr. Winn. Among others who gave short talks were James B. Everett, C. B. Reynolds and E. A. Minor.

The campaign headquarters for Courtland S. Winn, candidate for mayor, was opened at No. 12 West Alabama street, in the Hillier building, Monday morning, and E. V. Carter, chairman of Mr. Winn's campaign committee, was ready with his assistants to receive the many visitors who called.

Mr. Carter states that the outlook is most favorable and that he felt in a position to predict for Mr. Winn a large majority.

A number of people called at the headquarters Monday and assured Mr. Winn of their hearty support of Mr. Winn.

Campaign literature will be sent out from the headquarters today and from now on the rooms will be a daily busy scene until the day of election.

There will be a meeting at 12½ West Alabama street at 8 o'clock tonight to organize the First Ward Club. As there are many Winn enthusiasts in the first ward, a large delegation is expected.

ing with all three. Grace Emmett is a comedy host in herself; Waters started weak, but ended good strong; and few comedians have ever left so great an impression on the theatergoers as the "No. 10" member of Bowman Brothers.

Baxter and Southwick opened with a good act, Princess Miroff came next, pleasing in Russian dances, and the Osorno Brothers and Friday gave an excellent balancing act as the close of an exceptional bill.

At the Lyric.
It's a musical comedy of the ring-up-and-bust-'em variety all the way through "Happy Hooligan," which opened up at the Lyric last night.

"Happy Hooligan" is not a stranger in Atlanta, but it comes this time with new raiment and some of the rents visible before have been effaced. However, there are still a few rents in the present raiment of "Happy Hooligan," but these are smoothed over comically by the frills and furbelows which adorn it.

To use plain English, "Happy Hooligan" is a musical comedy with considerable music and also considerable comedy. It kept the crowd in an uproar, especially the gallery, and whenever the gallery is pleased it voices its approval, and whatever the gallery approves is apt to be a money-maker and also likely to draw the crowds. The singing and dancing is above the average, and there are numerous features which furnish much amusement.

SENSATION OF BEING SHOT DESCRIBED BY MAYOR GAYNOR

New York, September 19.—Mayor William J. Gaynor in a letter to his sister, Miss Mary E. Gaynor, of Utica, N. Y., which is printed this afternoon in The Evening Post, tells in an interesting manner of his impressions at the time he was shot on the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse. The mayor says that he has not read a line of what has been published of the shooting nor does he now remember the name of the man who shot him.

Incidents of Shooting.
Going over the incidents of the shooting, Mayor Gaynor, after stating that Robert Adamson, his secretary, pointed out that the ship was dressed with flags for him, said: "My next consciousness was of a terrible metallic roar in my head. It filled my head, which seemed as though it would burst open. It swelled to the highest pitch and then fell, and then rose again, and so alternated until it subsided into a continuous buzz. It was sickening, but my stomach did not give way. I was meanwhile entirely helpless. I was not at all conscious of my own condition. I became conscious I was on my feet. My sight gradually returned. I became conscious that I was choking. Blood was coming from my mouth and I tried all I could to swallow it so those around me would not see it. But I found I could not swallow and then I knew my throat was hurt. It seemed as though it were dislocated.

He Struggled to Breathe.
"I struggled to breathe through my mouth, but could not, and thought I was dying of strangulation. I kept thinking all the time the best thing to do was not a bit afraid to die. If that was God's will of me, I said to myself, just as well now as a few years from now."

He Scored Newspapers.
Mayor Gaynor in the letter scored certain newspapers for the manner in which they had criticized him, saying that "the time is at hand when these journalistic scoundrels have got to stop or get out, and I am ready now to do my share to that end."

Robert Adamson, the mayor's secretary, said tonight that the mayor's condition continues to improve and that he plans to return to his desk at the city hall on October 3.

day morning. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

H. A. Gilbert, Wilkes County.
Washington, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—The funeral of Henry A. Gilbert, who died at his home, six miles from Washington, occurred Sunday afternoon in the city cemetery, conducted by Rev. A. M. Pierce. Mr. Gilbert was 49 years old, and had been in ill-health since November of last year with throat trouble. He was prominent in the business and church affairs of his community, and was a member of the county school board. He is survived by his family of six children, Hon. F. W. Gilbert, of Washington, his brother, and Mrs. B. A. Adams, of Washington; Mrs. Russell, of Lexington, and Miss Susie Gilbert, his sisters.

I. L. Carpenter.
I. L. Carpenter, aged 22 years, proprietor of the Southern Butler & Street, died suddenly of an attack of apoplexy at his home in the ingold hotel, 44 Walton street, at 9:30 o'clock last night. He is survived by his wife, five children, Mrs. Edward Fanning, Mrs. John Hendrix, Mrs. Code Clay, Mrs. Fanning, and by two brothers, Tom and Val Carpenter. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Charged With Blockading.
Macon, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Dave Mercer, a cripple, from Waycross in Jones county, was committed to court by United States Commissioner L. M. Erwin today on a charge of operating a blockade distillery at his place. A portion of the still was found at his house and the other a short distance away. He was allowed to make his own bond for appearance.

R. W. Reid.
R. W. Reid, for many years a trusted employee of the city in the capacity of chief engineer of No. 1 waterworks, died at his residence near the waterworks at an early hour yesterday.

Lyceum Tickets.
The sale of season tickets to the lyceum course opened yesterday with a rush that was only equaled by that of last season, and already nearly half of the Auditorium has been sold out. There are thousands of good seats left yet, however, and they will continue on sale at the Cable Piano Company all the week. The sooner you call, the better seats you will be able to get. Orders from out of town continue to pour in, and a number were received yesterday by wire from as far away as New York city.

PRESBYTERY TO TRY SAVANNAH PASTOR

Who Excommunicated Elders and Deacons.

Rev. W. A. Nisbet Is Charged With Indifference in Regard to Duties—Try Elders Next Month.

Savannah, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—One the eve of the special meeting of the Savannah presbytery here tomorrow it develops that the presbytery will not try the insurgent elders and deacons of the Westminster Presbyterian church turned out by the pastor, Rev. W. A. Nisbet, but to try the pastor himself on charges preferred by the elders and deacons. The charges against Mr. Nisbet are that he was inefficient in relation to his pulpit duties and his pastoral work, indifferent in regard to the Sunday school and four other branches of the church work, and obstinate and unwilling to consider the suggestions of the officers of the church.

Charges Against Elders.
The charges against the elders and deacons are to be held at a session of the presbytery to be held at Flemington on October 4.

It also develops that Mr. Nisbet dispossessed the elders and deacons of the church following the receipt of the communication that a special meeting of the presbytery had been called to hear charges against him.

The elders and deacons have filed an answer to the charges contained in the dispossessment notice to them; that it was done without authority of church law in that they were guilty of the charges of inattention to their duties, and that they cannot be dispossessed without being cited to appear for trial, cited the second time in case they fail to answer to the first citation and properly tried for the offense for which they are charged and found guilty.

Trial Starts Today.
The special session of the presbytery to go into the charges against Mr. Nisbet, which are very voluminous, will convene at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow at noon.

Pending the session the dispossessed elders and deacons held a lengthy caucus tonight, supposedly for the purpose of putting the finishing touches on their case against the pastor whom they are trying to have dismissed from his church and who has retaliated by excommunicating them from the church. Numbers of witnesses have been interviewed by the two factions, and are to be on hand tomorrow to tell of the different phases of the controversy. Some special testimony is predicted for the hearing.

Property of the Empire Life—home office of the company. Located at the junction of Peachtree and Broad streets—right in the heart of progressive Atlanta. One of the most valuable pieces of real estate in the South.

This is one of the many investments of the Empire, proving to Southern people why it is to their interest to patronize a home enterprise. It means your money retained at home—which is of mutual interest.

Some proof, though, of the public growing wiser every day is the steady growth of the Empire. New 1910 business for eight months amounts to $7,573,000—close to a million a month.

GOVERNOR ON TRIAL FOR CRIMINAL LIBEL BY AMBUSHED MAN

Carroll, of Iowa, Arraigned Before Jury of Peers.

Des Moines, Iowa, September 19.—Charged with criminally libelling John Cowie, former chairman of the state board of control, Governor B. F. Carroll was placed on trial today. The indictment charges that the governor authorized the publication of a statement in The Des Moines Capital reflecting seriously on the character of Mr. Cowie. Among other charges, the statement declared that Mr. Cowie had been unduly familiar with girls at the Mitchellville Reform school. The defense of Governor Carroll will be, it is understood, that he was privileged in publishing the communication containing the alleged libel. It is also understood that the governor will make no use of technicalities to prevent the introduction of evidence, but will throw the case wide open.

ONLY ONE POSTAL BANK IN EACH OF STATES

Washington, September 19.—Attorney General Wickersham, Secretary MacVeagh and Postmaster General Hitchcock, who constitute the board of control for the postal savings banks, will have a preliminary conference before the cabinet meeting next week. It is understood the board is ready to recommend the establishment of one bank in each of the states and territories where it has been decided to make the experiment. It is the plan to issue certificates of deposit in one form up to $9 and in other forms for $10, $20 and $50. They will be nontransferable and non-negotiable. The applications of banks desiring to become depositories of the funds for outturning the applications of the postoffice to be equipped to take the savings. In South Carolina ten banks want to be depositories and only three post-offices want to be designated.

FIVE PERSONS SHOT BY AMBUSHED MAN

Three of the Victims Are Whites and Two Negroes.

Little Rock, Ark., September 19.—Five persons, three whites and two negroes, were shot from ambush by an unknown person while driving on the Sweethome pike, 4 miles south of Little Rock, tonight. One of the number, an unidentified negro, was instantly killed. Mrs. Charles Diehl, of Little Rock, was the first victim. She was brought to a local hospital and is believed to be seriously wounded. Fred Gossell and Miss Nellie Meyers, driving past the same place a short time later, were also shot. A charge of shot struck Gossell in the head, but he will recover. Miss Meyers was only slightly injured.

BIRMINGHAM FIRST STOP.

The Special from the Atlanta Terminal Station 8:30 a. m., September 27, will not stop at local stations. $2.50 round trip, limit September 29.

ESTATE OF HERMIT DOES SOME SHRINKING

Salem, Mass., September 19.—From an estimated value of $10,000,000 the estate which Isaac C. Wyman, the Salem hermit, left to his alma mater, Princeton university, for the founding of a graduate school, may shrink considerably, according to the inventory of Mr. Wyman's real estate holdings in Massachusetts and of all his personal property, which was filed in the probate court here today. The total contained in the inventory was $859,901, whereas at the time of Mr. Wyman's death his Massachusetts property was generally valued at between a million and million and a half dollars. Extensive realty holdings in many other states will bring up the total value of the estate, but it is now thought the aggregate will fall below the estimate. When Mr. Wyman died his wealth was at first estimated at $10,000,000, mostly in real estate, but this sum was soon cut down a third.

WELDON'S STORY OF SPLENDID TRIP

By Frank Weldon. Albany, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—There are cars and there are drivers, but Asa G. Candler, Jr., and his Lozier are in a class by themselves. Our dope sheet called for tonight's stop at Americus. Instead we reached Americus for dinner, and pulled up at The Albany Herald office here at 3:30, and are now figuring on making Moultrie for supper.

We made 310 miles to Albany in just ten hours, and lost two hours at Macon, Americus and other points, at that. Our actual running has been at the rate of little more than 26 miles an hour.

The Lozier, carrying The Constitution and Atlanta Automobile Association's banners, left The Constitution building at 5:31; arrived at Griffin, 58.3 miles distant, at 6:50; Barnesville, 86 miles, at 7:30; Forsyth, 69 miles, at 8:05, and The Macon Telegraph office, 91 miles, at 9:09. This included a 10-minute stop at Forsyth.

The Augusta Chronicle's Speedwell, which left Atlanta fifteen minutes behind the Lozier, arrived at Macon at 9:26.

Greeted in Macon. Colonel Charles Pondleton and Business Manager Anderson greeted the tourists at The Telegraph building. We did not get away from Macon until 9:56. Finding the roads excellent, we decided to try to make Americus for dinner, and speeded over the beautiful roads of Bibb, Houston, Macon and Schley counties at 30 miles an hour. Hon. Elijah Lewis and a number of Montezuma's business men met us at the famed artesian well. From there we pushed on to Ellaville, and then struck 14 miles of road which made Asa Candler think he was on his speedway.

"I have never driven over as fine roads as some of these in Houston, Macon, Schley and Sumter counties," he exclaimed. "I did not believe there were such roads in Georgia. The people who go on the October tour will be amazed at the progress these middle Georgia counties are making in road construction. The roads from Atlanta to Macon are good, but these south of Macon are superb."

Fifty Miles an Hour. He set the pace at 50 miles an hour from Ellaville to Americus, and reeled off the 14 miles in nineteen minutes, and that included railroad crossings and slowing down after reaching the city limits of Americus. That was going some.

Hon. Crawford Wheatley, President Lanier, of the American Automobile Club; C. C. Clay and Editor Thomas Gamble, of The Times-Recorder, headed a large delegation of citizens who greeted us there.

While we were talking, The Chronicle's Speedwell and The Telegraph's Velle came up. The Speedwell is car-borne, J. E. C. Edsall and J. W. Goldsmith, and the Kennedy brothers, of Augusta. J. C. Wheeler, of Macon, is driving the Velle, and is accompanied by G. H. Long, of The Telegraph's editorial staff. The Speedwell had a puncture in Macon, and broke a spring clip after leaving there. All three cars are running beautifully.

Albany's reception was cordial, but they were not looking for us until tomorrow. The roads are so excellent that we cannot resist the temptation to keep plodding along.

Kearney Is Named. Baltimore, September 19.—J. R. Kearney has been appointed superintendent of transportation of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, succeeding Charles W. Galloway, who last week was promoted to general superintendent of the southern district.

navigate, though nobody was boasting.

But here is a story of the lightning swiftness of Georgia roads that upset all their calculations, and that point the near approach of a time when the farmers of the state will have the vast benefits of a system of public highways rivaling the railroads in their passability and directness. What that means to the development of Georgia and the lessening of the transportation tax between the farm and the market is past computation.

Kept the Railroad Schedule. The trip from Atlanta to Macon was made in less than four hours, the three cars arriving in the Central City at 9:09 o'clock.

This is almost equal to the regular schedule observed by the Central of Georgia railway. The trio of autos could have beat that schedule had they been out for speed instead of being bent on surveying the roads for the contestants of the regular tour.

This unprecedented time to Macon gave the party hope that they might make Albany by night, as prophesied provisionally in advance.

So they swung out of Bibb county in the direction of the capital of Sumter.

Americus for Dinner. But they had reckoned without the splendid improvement wrought in the country roads between Macon and Americus since the projecting of the round-the-state tour.

The highways were almost smooth as glass, inequalities and ruts had been summarily evicted, bridges improved and grades reduced. Down through Fort Valley, Marshville, Montezuma, Oglethorpe and Buellville, hatching up in Americus at 12:45 o'clock.

Here they stopped for dinner and a conference with the enthusiasts who are preparing to get on the 950-mile oval next month in a competition for the numerous and handsome prizes.

On to Moultrie. Leaving Americus, the party hustled out on the splendid highways of Sumter toward Albany, encouraged by the congratulations of the reception committee in Americus, and with blood in their eyes for record.

They progressed without a hitch on through Smithville and Leesburg. One of the latest telegrams from Mr. Weldon intimated that there was every prospect of reaching Moultrie, in Colquitt county, in time for supper.

What the Feet Mean. This merging of north, middle and south Georgia in a tour that lasted between suns, is, of course, spectacular to the last degree. It is doubtful if three machines ever accomplished such a feat under similar circumstances.

But the main feature is the splendid condition of the Georgia highways, as infallibly indicated by the ability of the cars to parallel railroad time from the capital of the state almost to the southern borders of the commonwealth.

What that means to the farmers of Georgia and the industry and commerce generally of the state and its all-round development, is impossible to set in cold figures!

"SPITE CHURCH" DUE TO A SALOON QUARREL

New York, September 19.—New York has a "spite church" erected, it is said, as a result of the business rivalry of two saloon keepers in the Bronx. The church, a little wooden building, was opened for worship yesterday with a congregation of thirty persons.

For some time the liquor trade in the neighborhood has been divided between two saloon keepers, whose business rivalry has been keen. There is a state law which forbids the keeping of a saloon within 100 feet of a church.

One of the saloon keepers said there could be no more effective way of putting a rival out of business than building a church near enough to him to compel him to close up when his license ran out. The property upon which the new congregation will pray belongs to the saloon keeper, and was donated by him for the purpose. The other liquor man asserts that the structure was plainly erected to force him out of business, and he is angry, and declares that he will retaliate by taking steps to build another church on property owned by a relative within 100 feet of his rival's door.

STOCK WATERING BY THE RAILROADS

In Order to Enrich Alleged Stockholders.

Subject Is Probed at Rate Hearing and Startling Disclosures Result—No Evidence of Manipulation in Record Except the Passing of "Fair Dividends."

Chicago, September 19.—Stock inflation and manipulation designed to turn over to alleged stockholders large sums of money without putting in the company's record any evidence of more than passing fair dividends was the subject delved into today by the interstate commerce commission here at the continuation of its hearing, following the suspension of the general advance of freight rates of western lines, which had been scheduled to take effect September 1.

The stock manipulation feature of the inquiry, which seems to bring out what grounds the railroads have for asking the increase, was suggested by Commissioner Judson C. Clements, and was immediately taken up with the commission's attorney, Frank Lyon, and Attorney John H. Atwood, of Kansas City, Mo., who appeared for the general shippers' committee, which is fighting the increase.

Startling Disclosures. Controller M. P. Blauvelt, of the Illinois Central railroad, the witness from whom the startling disclosures which followed were obtained. Commissioner Clements called the witness' attention to figures he had furnished on direct examination by the road's counsel, W. H. Horton. The commissioner said:

"You say, Mr. Blauvelt, that in 1891, your capital stock was $40,000,000 on 2,875 miles of road, and in 1910 on only 1,700 miles more it was $109,000,000. Also that in 1891 the bonded indebtedness was only $2,000,000, while in 1910 it had reached $176,000,000. Why is this?"

"Well," was the answer, "what would appear to be the excess went to improve the roadway and to the equipment and purchase of other roads."

"And how was the stock raised for these purposes sold?" continued the commissioner. "Was it on the open market?"

"Part of it was, but most of it was sold to the stockholders at par."

"Was there ever declared a stock dividend?"

"Oh, no, I'm sure there wasn't. But it amounted to the same as any other dividend. Illinois Central stock sales represented real value, you must see, in dollars and cents."

New Disposition of Stock. Here Attorney Frank Lyon, for the commission, took a hand in the cross-examination, seeking to have the witness differentiate between giving stockholders stock dividend or giving them a stock worth more than par at parity. The controller insisted there was a vast difference, even if the result was the same in cash to the stockholders, which he admitted.

This part of the testimony opened a new disposition of a corporation's stock, and Commissioner Lane, after asking if it was to make the stock value approach the cash value, and being informed it was not, allowed the attorney to delve into the par stock deals.

"If your stock sold at 150 in the open market," asked the attorney, "and you gave it to your stockholders at 100, what became of the extra 50 cents of its value?"

"Why, it went to the stockholders," was the answer.

"Then the amount of it was that your company added to its capital stock by letting stock go at 100, when it was selling at 150, and could have sold less stock on the open market, satisfied its need and kept the capital stock down, giving less capital to figure dividends upon, isn't that so?" was the next inquiry.

Witness Tries to Explain. Controller Blauvelt was unwilling such an expression should prevail, he said, and he explained by saying: "Suppose we dumped $15,000,000 in stock on the market at once, it would sell at 100, and we would have $15,000,000 in cash. I consider it a good business policy to sell where we were sure it would bring par and keep control of the road where it was."

Attorney John H. Atwood, of Kansas City, representing the general shippers' committee, was anxious to know, he said, how much of the company's $28,000,000 in stocks and bonds has thus been sold at par since 1900.

"Can you give me the figure," he asked.

The reply caused other attorneys for the shippers, to hastily examine the records that had been submitted by the company. Mr. Blauvelt answered: "I find the sum was $49,000,000 par value."

"That, sold in small dabs on the market at or below par, would have amounted to about a third to a half or more, in addition to that figure, wouldn't it?"

"I don't know," replied the witness. "I think I can help you," answered the attorney. He read from a stock and bond company's pamphlet which quoted the high and low market prices in the period covered as between 123 and 174, with an average of about 150.

Searching Questions by Clements. After further questioning along the same line which brought out no new facts, Commissioner Clements interposed an inquiry which directed the questioning along a new line, that to which stock sale money was put and the possibility of actual gains of the company being hidden in its owning stock and bonds in subsidiary companies. The controller answered this questioning

YOUNG WIDOW WEDGED BETWEEN TWO FENCES

Clad in Her "Nightie," She Was Rescued by a Policeman.

New York, September 19.—The united efforts of a policeman, a fireman and an ambulance surgeon were required early this morning to effect the rescue of Mrs. Emma Wick, a young widow, who, unable to sleep, had gone to the window of her second floor apartment for a breath of air and had fallen to the area below. By a vacancy of architecture the court of Mrs. Wick's apartment is separated by two fences which are only about eighteen inches apart. Clad in her night robe, she fell between the two fences and found herself wedged tightly in the narrow chasm and unable to escape.

Her screams brought her neighbors flocking to her windows. Then they had learned her plight, and found that all their impromptu suggestions were unavailing to assist her, they telephoned for official help.

One called the police department, another asked for a fireman, and a third summoned an ambulance. Policemen, fireman and ambulance surgeon arrived post-haste. Together they wielded the ax and crowbar, pulling down enough of the fences to release the prisoner. She was unhurt.

By insisting that when the companies and the subsidiaries paid back dividends, those returns were not properly sources of income to be considered in computing dividends.

The commissioner asked: "Some of this additional property which your company acquired was purchased by earnings, wasn't it?"

"It was," was the reply.

Returns Not Included. "Then," interrupted Attorney Lyon, "does the income include returns from these outside companies?"

"No, certainly not," replied Controller Blauvelt. "Few of them pay any dividend and return revenue is consumed in payment of expenses on their separate lines, and doesn't furnish for income."

Attorney Clifford Thorne, of the Farmers' Cooperative Association, then sought to show by the witness that the present year's high cost of maintenance was abnormal, and would not be expected next year, hence the increase of rates on that account was not necessary. The controller did not have the specific information he sought and the inquiry was put over until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Freight Tariffs Knocked. V. D. Fort, general passenger agent for the north and west lines of the Illinois Central, stirred up the commissioners, when, in speaking of the increased cost of the company of printing freight tariffs since the rules relating to them had been enforced, said:

"They are of no use except to the commission—our patrons don't use them."

"Mr. Fort," retorted Commissioner Clark, "don't you know that our ruling allowing you to post only an index to your tariffs in two places in each station, instead of the whole tariff, saved you hundreds of thousands of dollars? And don't you know it is solely to enable your patrons to have a clear idea of your charges?"

"It never has saved us anything," said Mr. Fort, "and is only a burden on commerce."

"Then, why don't you ask congress to have it repealed?" returned the commissioner.

MRS. WOMACK ACQUITTED OF MURDER OF INFANT

Jackson, Miss., September 19.—Etta Womack, supposed mother of the child, who was found in the clasp of the Vicksburg Monday of last week, has been acquitted. Police Justice Thompson charged her today after hearing several witnesses, and this probably means the case against Mrs. Vance and Chief Kendrick will be dropped. The state failed to prove murder in the case, as Dr. J. P. Hunter, one of the leading physicians of the state, testified that he, while with Mrs. Womack and that the child, while alive, he saw it last, was very feeble, and he did not expect it to live.

ATLANTA'S BRAND OF MUNICIPAL ADVERTISING.

The several thousand Odd Fellows thronging the streets, hotels, amusement places and homes of Atlanta this week hail from every part of the United States and from a good many places outside the United States.

Each one of these strangers within our gates become boosters for Atlanta by that premier brand of publicity—the good word spoken from mouth to mouth.

It is worth while considering that fact in tracing the influences for growth, registered in the federal census just handed down, as well as for its inevitable bearing upon the future.

It is because Atlanta treats every guest with a wholesomeness that combines the spontaneity of the old regime with the thought and methods of the twentieth century, that the city has been favorably talked about from one end of the country to the other, as well as in the old world wherever tourists with the globe-trotting habit penetrate.

More than any other southern city, Atlanta has in the past recognized the value of this attitude toward the nation, and applied its philosophy whenever opportunity offered.

It was the old Cotton Exposition, held way out on Marietta street, that probably gave the city its first great impetus as a municipality that the whole country could well afford to watch. Big business men from the north came down to that exhibition, saw the possibilities in Atlanta's splendid strategical position and in her sweeping command of raw resources, and went back home to give the results of their findings where the verdict would do the most good.

Ever since then the city has been repeating the process, on a sliding scale. Every national crowd drawn here, whether to an exposition, a convention, a music festival or to do honor to a president of the country, has been the vanguard of expansion for Atlanta, the settlement here of more home-makers and of the invasion of more capitalists seeking profitable investments.

So that, after a fashion, the city's innate love of extending hospitality has likewise been one of the most important agencies in promoting her prosperity and her international prestige.

In this profitable direction Atlanta has, moreover, made merely a start. The city, its people and their community are better equipped than ever to typify for the entire south the part of host to the nation.

That they are prepared and determined to do so is indicated by the alert, aggressive and co-operative spirit displayed by every commercial or civic organization, large or small, in the range of the city's numerous activities.

"DIXIE" GEOGRAPHICALLY SPEAKING.

The American seeking the true attitude of the people of the whole country toward the events growing out of the sixties could do no better than to contrast two incidents recently occurring in Seattle and Atlantic City.

It will be remembered that when a band thoughtlessly played "Dixie" at a gathering of veterans on the Pacific slope, the misguided Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, broke up the meeting with a florid and bitter protest against the southern melody.

The other day at Atlantic City, where the Grand Army of the Republic is holding its annual encampment, General Daniel E. Sickles entered the Auditorium amid tremendous cheers, and to the accompaniment of "Dixie" played by the band of Commander-in-Chief Van Sant!

Later on, Hilary A. Herbert, of Alabama, shared speaking time with Commander Van Sant, and the meeting turned into a regular love feast, with the ultimate suggestion that the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans hold a joint reunion at an early date.

In the face of developments of this nature, reflecting veraciously a new, strong and indivisible national citizenship, the pranks of Heyburn deserve to rank with those of the occasional and irreconcilable confederate fire-eater—a matter for commiseration rather than for condemnation.

WHAT PARCELS POST WOULD DO.

The fourth-class postmasters of Georgia, in session in Atlanta the other day, added the weight of their indorsement to the demand of innumerable organizations throughout America for a parcels post.

The average citizen, given little to studying the intricacies of our postal service, is comparatively uninformed regarding the handicap of the people living in this country in the matter of domestic postage rates.

For instance, under international agreement, it is possible to send an eleven-pound package from Atlanta to most of the civilized countries of the world at the rate of 12 cents a pound, or a total of $1.32 for the entire package. For this price, eleven pounds of merchandise may be forwarded by various carriers, railroad, steamship and other delivery for a distance exceeding 10,000 miles in some cases.

In America it is impossible, in the first place, to send a package of more than four pounds weight. For this maximum, the postoffice department charges a rate of a cent an ounce, or 16 cents a pound, for transporting the package to any place within the boundaries of the United States. If the shipper, in an effort to get under the same system as that formulated by international treaties, made up his shipment into three packages so as to come within the four-pound limit, it would cost him $1.76 cents to transport the three to any point in this country.

In other words, one may send eleven pounds of merchandise from Atlanta to Berlin for 44 cents less than from Atlanta to Marietta, by the mail route at least.

Both parties stand directly or by implication pledged to a parcels post, and a vigorous fight was made in the last session of congress to secure its enactment in some form. Influences too well understood to require elaboration interfered, and the people of the United States are called upon to wait indefinitely for a convenience granted almost every civilized nation on the globe.

For instance, in England one may send an eleven-pound maximum of merchandise of almost any nature at a nominal rate by mail. It is said that farm produce, such as butter, eggs and vegetables, have taken such increasing advantage of the rate that special departments have been established to handle them. What a similar system would mean both to country and city residents in America is thus sharply foreshadowed.

We are very much mistaken if such a concentrated demand is not made upon congress the coming winter as will assure a readjustment of this plain injustice.

OSTRICH-HEADED REPUBLICANISM.

The report has gone forward that the republican makers of the campaign book of that party, in a moment of fatuity, decreed that the words "progressive" and "insurgent" should both be barred from that thrilling publication. The idea was, of course, that the calling of a spade a spade would derogate from party unity and tear apart wounds that had not yet ceased to bleed.

It is difficult to see how this official appeal for support will carry any weight, if it is to pursue this ostrich-in-the-sand policy.

Unfortunately for the designs of the authors of the book, the people of America are reading and thinking as never before in the history of the republic.

The average American is about as well informed regarding the true inwardness of political events as congressmen themselves, and a good deal better informed than the average stand-patter, as witness results in New England and the middle west.

Wherefore, it would seem to have been more expedient had this precious piece of literature been abandoned altogether, or if its sponsors had discussed issues as between the two wings in a spirit of inspiring courage and candor.

A revolt against the dominant party within its ranks is none the less real for denying its existence.

Indeed, disingenuousness is becoming increasingly ineffective in American politics, a brutal fact to which the politicians have got to reconcile themselves, as unpalatable as they may find the process.

"JUST FROM GEORGIA"

The Old-Fashioned Prophet.

I ain't no Guv'ment weather man, as high up as kin be,
But I know the Dixie weather, an' 'm prophesying free!

Never hear me holler,
Any day or time:
"Fair fer a dollar,
Rain fer a dime!"

The farmer-folks take notice when I'm lookin' at the sky;
The Raincrow's out o' business when he hears me prophesy.

Never hear me holler,
Any day or time:
"Rain fer a dollar, Fair fer a dime!"

Golden Days in Billville.

Already the gold leaves are fluttering down; the hills have golden-rod to burn; the sun sets in a golden sky; but there's no gold for groceries, and ham is still as high as the golden stars of heaven. Gold is all around us and above—especially above; but we're thankful that we still have the imagination to make a silver dollar look as big as the autumn moon, and when one rings you can hear us holler "Come in" for a mile!

The Time o' Dreams.

The drowsy weather makes me nod, but though for rest I'm wishing,
I think I'll get a golden-rod and spend the day a-fishing.

The world seems drifting through a dream—faint sounds and echoes calling.
Yet you can almost hear the leaves from windless branches falling.

So much of toll—so much of strife where earthly lights are gleaming, We'll rest us in the sweeter life with Love in violets dreaming.

The Song of Apple Butter.

The Bantown Bard is not of the poets who thrive on income. He takes apple butter on his daily bread:

"Beside the kitchen door she stands,
An apple stirrer in her hands,
The old clock ticks the autumn hours,
The last bees drone amid the flowers,
The bubbling of the boiling pot
Blurs through the silent noon and hot."

A cricket calls across the scene,
The flies buzz on along the screen;
Oh, witchery more than pen can utter—
The boiling of the apple butter!"

In the Harvest Land.

This is the time when the fellow
With the fine crop feels rich enough to Pity Rockefeller—that is, if the high Sheriff doesn't drive up and levy on him while he is shaking hands with Prosperity. It takes toll to reach the Harvest Land, and you don't regret it

If the unsuspected hurricane doesn't sweep gousse and harvest away.

"The World Is Worth a Song."
Never one for sayin'
The world's a-runnin' wrong
Whilst a fiddle's there for playin'
An' a voice can sing a song.

From every town an' stepple
Send the news along:
The world is for the people.
An' the world is worth a song!

In the Land of Promise.
This word of protest from a weary campaigner:
"You promised to do something for me, colonel, but you're slower than a ox-team gittin' to it; an' to think that I voted for you till I was all wore out, an' just couldn't vote no more!"

Letters From People

Mutt and Jeff's Book.
New York, September 16, 1910.—Editor
The Constitution: I have received many letters from readers of The Constitution about the Mutt and Jeff Cartoons, asking if the cartoons could be obtained in book form.
I have decided to get out the book. In fact,
the publisher is now on the press.

The book contains the racing cartoons,
the Clarice series, Mutt as a ball-player,
a banker, and finally the trip to Reno series.
The price will be 10c.

I believe an announcement of this would be of interest to your readers as well as a great favor to myself.

IS RESTORED TO OWNER

The Story in The Constitution
Aids in the Recovery.

Probably No. 48 isn't such a very unlucky number after all—not so very.
For 48, after allowing itself to be lost, has redeemed itself by allowing itself to be found, and Charles Chalmers, automobilist, is glad.

In The Constitution a few days ago the story was printed that someone had "lifted" Mr. Chalmers' number off his car, right after he had registered with the secretary of state and secured the bright and shining number, 48. Mr.
Chalmers knew it was "lifted," because he had just screwed it on with a screw driver.

"The police found my number," Mr.
Chalmers telephoned Secretary Cook.
"I think the story in the paper caused the thief to place it where it could be found when he learned that it would be of no possible value to anyone other than the owner."

Attempt to Rob Treasury.
Macon, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)
—When City Treasurer A. R. Tinsley went to his office at the city hall this morning he found another effort had been made to rob his place of the city's cash. This time the would-be burglars were apparently scared away, for the office door was cut at the lock, but from indications no one had entered. Only a few weeks ago some one entered, tore open the cash drawer and got away with a small amount of change. Since that time the office has kept all cash securely locked in the big safe.

Loses Last Dollar.
Macon, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)
As she reached Macon today on her way to Jacksonville, where she was to have paid the first visit to relatives in the past fifteen years, Mrs. M. Saxon, of Perkins, Ga., was robbed of $10,
the only money she had, at the union depot, while she was making an effort to get transfer accommodations from one depot to the other. She reported the affair to Mayor Moore's office, and an effort was made to locate the thief. She was given transportation.

Harris Named Lieutenant.
Macon, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)
John B. Harris was tonight formally elected first lieutenant of the Macon Volunteers. McAllister Isaac is captain, and the two young leaders will strive to keep their organization in the first rank, as it has stood for years.

Gossip at the Capitol

A. H. Ulm, private secretary to Governor Brown, was back at his office yesterday, after a trip with a Georgia party to the Ohio River Valley Exposition at Cincinnati.

"We had a most enjoyable trip, and were given a cordial reception by the people in charge of the exposition," said Mr. Ulm. "They showed great interest in the land exposition which is planned for this state, and agreed to help us out in any way they can.
The president, directors and other officers of the exposition have been invited to attend the land exposition, and it is probable that many of them will do so."

Secretary of State Phil Cook yesterday granted a charter to the Georgia Banking Company of Marshallville.
The capital stock is placed at $20,000, and the incorporators are J.
C. Walker, A. J. Hamilton and T. S.
Taylor.

Mortality Not So High.
That mortality in the southern states is not as high as it used to be, and that therefore the southern companies are more successful than formerly, was the statement made by M. D. Johnson, of the Florida Life, in his address. Mr.
Johnson stated that disease is being rapidly eliminated in the south and that fewer people are dying each year in proportion to the population than ever before.

W. C. Baldwin, president of the Provident Life of Petersburg, Va., spoke on the attitude of the different state legislatures toward the life insurance companies. Mr. Baldwin called the attention of the members to the fact that the companies are being treated much better now than ever before.

In his annual address delivered yesterday,
Isaac Miller Hamilton, president of the association, declared that the insurance companies of the association are not fighting proper regulation by the states. He protested, however, against the changeable tactics which he declared are being pursued in a few of the states. Some of the insurance examiners, he said, make an effort to keep the general public from knowing of the move.

The meeting tonight is on for the purpose of getting resolutions and a committee representing the working railway employees before the commission.

BIDS FOR SCHOOL
ALL TURNED DOWN

All Were in Excess of Amount Allowed for Second Ward.

Bids on the new Second ward school to be erected on the corner of Georgia avenue and Formwalt street, opened yesterday afternoon by a subcommittee of the board of education and the board of commissioners at a meeting held in the Boys' High School, were found to be so far in excess of the money appropriated for this purpose that they were all turned down.

The lowest bid submitted for the erection of the building alone was $41, 500, while the sum set aside by the city and intended to cover the erection of the building, the installation of a heating plant, the architect's fee and the heating engineer's fee is only $40,546.24.

In order to bring the cost of the school within the amount appropriated, the architect, Harry Leslie Walker, will go over the plans with the different contractors and trim down the specifications.

POPULAR ASSEMBLY MEMBERS

MALCOLM C. TARVER.

Who has been reelected as a member of the house of representatives from Whitfield county, is one of the most prominent attorneys in his section. Since his graduation from Mercer-law school in 1904, Mr. Tarver has been actively engaged in the practice, having been located since September, 1905, at Dalton. Mr. Tarver was born and reared in Whitfield county, spending his boyhood days on a farm near Dalton, where he earned enough money to pay his way through school. During the last legislature Mr. Tarver took an active interest in progressive legislation. Some time ago Mr. Tarver announced that he would be a candidate for speaker pro tem. of the next house.

HON. W. E. WHITEHEAD.

Senator-elect from the thirteenth district, is 42 years old and is a native of Oglethorpe county, of which his father, Hon. George W. Whitehead, was a prominent and honored citizen. Senator Whitehead has acquired a handsome competency as a farmer and merchant. He is an active member of Stevens, Martin & Co., one of the strongest firms in northeast Georgia, and has large farming interests. Senator Whitehead is a man of fine ability and is thoroughly posted on the issues of the day. He is an effective speaker, impressing his hearers by the soundness of his reasoning and his evident honesty and sincerity. He enjoys the unbounded confidence and esteem of his neighbors. Many seek his counsel.

WOULD PLACE BAN ON "RISKY" DEALS

W. L. Moore, Insurance Association Head, Denounces

Promotion Schemes.

(From The Des Moines, Iowa, Register.) determined state against great promotion schemes which tend to undermine the confidence of the people in all insurance companies should be taken by the representatives of the established insurance companies according to President Wm. L. Moore, of the Southern States Life, of Atlanta, Ga., who delivered a strong address before the convention of the American Life Association yesterday.

The fifth annual meeting of the association opened its sessions at the Savary hotel yesterday morning. Representatives of sixty-five legal reserve companies of the United States are in attendance at the convention. In the absence of Governor B. F. Carroll and Mayor James R. Hanna, ex-Governor Frank D. Jackson, president of the Royal Union Mutual, of Des Moines, welcomed the delegates to the city. It was while responding to Governor Jackson's address of the harm of the great promotion schemes.

Discussions Technical.
The discussions in the convention yesterday were largely of a technical nature and dealt entirely with subjects relating to the life insurance business. The delegates discussed the best way to draw up policies and to meet the laws of the various states. It was the opinion of Mr. Moore that too many of the companies of the country are paying their agents too much money to have a successful business. The delegates passed limiting the amounts to be paid solicitors, saying that extravagance was ruining the business. A resolution was tabled by the association members, it being the sense of the convention that each company should offer, at a price of its own business as it saw fit.

President T. L. Miller, of the West Coast Life of San Francisco, told the members of the association that in the west the greatest avenue of extension for the insurance companies is in the Pacific Islands. In Japan, he said, the natives think that they are insulating an insurance agent if they turn down an offer. A fervent prayer was sent up by the other members of the association that in time the American people may come to feel the same way about the insurance business.

Mortality Not So High.
That mortality in the southern states is not as high as it used to be, and that therefore the southern companies are more successful than formerly, was the statement made by M. D. Johnson, of the Florida Life, in his address. Mr. Johnson stated that disease is being rapidly eliminated in the south and that fewer people are dying each year in proportion to the population than ever before.

RANK OF PAGE TO BE CONFERRED

Georgia Lodge, No. 153, Knights of Pythias, Meets

Wednesday.

At the regular convention of Georgia Lodge, No. 153, Knights of Pythias, in Castle hall, Kluge building, corner Pryor and Hunter streets, on Wednesday night, September 21, the rank of page will be conferred on four candidates by a thoroughly competent team.

Following this rank work, Rev. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, will deliver an address explaining the beautiful character lessons taught the candidates taking this rank.

The explanatory address following the rank work will be a distinct innovation in Pythian lodge work, and all qualified knights are cordially invited to attend and enjoy Dr. White's address.

BESSIE TIFF COLLEGE BEGINNING REAL WORK

Attendance at Popular Institution Far Beyond the Usual.

Forsyth, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)
Bessie Tift college, the famous old Baptist school for girls, has completed its opening organization and is beginning real work on what promises to be its most prosperous year. The attendance is far beyond the usual, both the big dormitories being filled, and more students are arriving. The usual spring election of officers for the two literary societies has been held, the freshmen have been initiated into the organizations, and all the new girls are learning the customs and traditions of old Bessie Tift. The opening recital by the conservatory of music promises that Forsyth will have some pleasant musical evenings this fall, for Professor Thickett, the new head of the department, is a distinguished pianist, and the voice teachers are fresh from a summer in Europe, bringing home new ideas and new songs.

Another Date Named FOR "PICTURE SHOWER"

Entertainment at the Old Soldiers' Home Postponed a Week.

The program of speeches, recitations and songs appropriate to the "picture shower" arranged for Wednesday afternoon at the Georgia Confederate Soldiers' home has been postponed until Wednesday afternoon, September 28, on account of the grand parade of the Old Fellows, which is to occur on the date first appointed by the Soldiers' Home committee of Atlanta chapter, U. D. C. All who had agreed to assist in the entertainment at the home are asked to notice the change, and it is hoped that they will all be present to act their part on the newly appointed date.

Love's Comings.

When I was young, and wanted, wide-eyed I Tossed me from sleeping. Love, himself did come
Me to console and learn to dream awake.
With heavenly toys my pillow he bedewed,
Gave of his love, and I was his. A golden glow
The little mirror that had held his face:
A golden glow that Pegasus had cast:
One of her dove's bright plumes: an irised edge
Broke from the shell she lay in at her birth:
A rose-kissed opus by immortal lips.
All night I with the pretty haubts played.
Then asked his name, not knowing him who he was.

"I am First Love," quoth he, and straightway Sed.

Youth with First Love was gone and Life a-sleep,
But I lay wakeful, lonely even for dreams.
When one came suddenly, like a serving king,
And smothered my pillow. Wonderful his eyes
As winter waters that enfold a star.
No haubts did he bring nor any rose.
But for a scepter held a branch of thorns Thick studded as with rubies. Trembling sore,
"Kiss me," I questioned, "who art thou?"
"I am First Love," he said, "and I remain."
Then did he bend his scepter to my breast:
"I am First Love," he said, "and I remain."

Dr. Harris, who has been in ill health for some time, left his post of duty in Nashville about ten days ago, and upon the invitation of Dr. Lovejoy, of this city, came to Pinelock, where board was secured for him at the home of Mr. Clarence Anthony. It was hoped that the mountain air of North Georgia would prove beneficial to him, and he seemed to be improving until Sunday afternoon, when he was missed from the Anthony home. A search was made for him and he was found in a nearby cotton field, where he had sunk into a profound stupor. He was brought to the house, where, after hard work, he was revived. He then told his host that he was subject to spells and that there was nothing in his condition to cause alarm. He would not allow them to send for a physician, but later in the day he became so much worse that it was deemed advisable to summon a medical man. Upon arrival the physician announced that Dr. Harris was suffering with morphia poisoning, and that if allowed to go to sleep he would never be aroused. Every effort was made to keep the sick man awake, but despite this he breathed his last at 10:15 o'clock Sunday night.

Funeral and Burial at Oxford. Mrs. Harris, who was in Nashville, was telegraphed for, and she will arrive in this city Tuesday morning on the early train, upon which the body will be placed. The funeral and interment will be in Oxford, the old home of Dr. Harris.

The remains were brought to Cartersville this afternoon and prepared for burial, after which the body was removed to the home of Dr. W. P. Lovejoy, where a large number of the friends of the deceased called.

Dr. Harris was known as one of the most brilliant men in the whole Methodist connection. He had served for many years as an educator, having held professorships at Emory, Young Harris and other prominent southern colleges.

He had also gained wide reputation as an author, and in collaboration with his brilliant wife, he wrote many charming stories. Mrs. Harris, who survives him, is known all over the United States as the author of the literary masterpiece, "A Circuit Rider's Wife," and a number of his admirers have been writing her for years as his wife's assistant in this series of brilliant stories.

As soon as the condition of Dr. Harris became known his brother, Rev. W. A. Harris, of Rockmart, was telegraphed for. He came at once and was in this city today.

A Man Widely Known. The Rev. Mr. Harris was widely known not only in Atlanta, but throughout Georgia. For more than fifteen years he was a member of the faculty of Emory college, of which he was a graduate, and for almost as many more he preached in various parts of the state.

Mr. Harris was graduated from Emory with honors in the class of 1876, a classmate of Bishop Warren A. Candler. Soon after he was given an adjunct professorship at Emory, which he held for six years.

Entering the ministry, Mr. Harris preached at several places in the state, but in 1888 returned to Emory college, taking the place of adjunct professor of Greek. He was put in charge of the department of Greek in 1894. He held this professorship until 1898, when he accepted a chair in the Piedmont institute at Rockmart, Ga. Later he taught at Young Harris college, in the northern part of the state.

In 1900 he returned to the ministry in the North Georgia Conference and was stationed at Grovetown, near Augusta. In February he was transferred from the charge to College Park to fill the unexpired term of the Rev. P. A. Heard. He served the College Park church for two years, again leaving the ministry to accept the secretaryship to Dr. J. D. Hammond, secretary of the board of education of the Southern Methodist church, with headquarters at Nashville, Tenn. He resigned this position only a few months ago.

Many Friends at College. While serving the Methodist church at College Park, Dr. Harris and his wife, who has since become famous in literary circles, greatly endeared themselves to the residents of that suburb, and the news of his untimely death has caused a cloud of sorrow to hang heavily over all those who knew him in his work there.

The publication some months ago of "The Circuit Rider's Wife," a story which has been a great success, has been leveled at her from certain quarters, but without a single exception, the College Park friends of the author and her husband stoutly defended the position Mrs. Harris took in the story, saying that they knew her for a good woman and one who wrote of life as she had found it.

In speaking of Mr. Harris last night Bishop Candler paid him a high compliment, saying that he was a most brilliant man and an accomplished professor.

KILLS ONE WOMAN, SHOOT ANOTHER

Drink-Crazed Man Then Shoots Himself

Abbeville Shocked by Tragedy in Which Mrs. F. H. Williams Was Killed and Mrs. Royal Wounded.—B. Maness the Assailant.

Abbeville, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Mrs. F. H. Williams is dead; her sister, Mrs. Eugene Royal, is seriously wounded, the victims of B. E. Maness, who fired upon the women and, after shooting them down, turned the weapon upon himself, inflicting a wound from which he now lies dying. Mrs. Williams was the wife of Colonel F. H. Williams, a prominent attorney of this place, who also served the town as mayor for several terms.

Mrs. Royal was the widow of the late Dr. A. R. Royal, who, before his death, was a prominent physician of this place.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Royal are daughters of the late Major A. H. F. Reid, who entertained Mrs. Davis here in his flight from Sherman's men. Maness is a widower, about 50 years of age.

Attentions of Maness Rejected. Maness, it is said, was madly infatuated with Mrs. Royal, who did not return his love. This morning, while drinking, he went to her home, where she was sick in bed. He began to abuse her for not accepting his attentions.

Mrs. Williams, who lives next to Mrs. Royal, heard him, and went to the assistance of her sister. When Maness saw Mrs. Williams come in, he fired three shots at her, one taking effect in one hand, the second in the other hand. The third shot struck her in the head, killing her instantly. He then turned and shot Mrs. Royal, inflicting a serious, though not fatal, wound.

Maness evidently thought he had killed Mrs. Royal, as he then marched out into the hall and shot himself in the head.

Mrs. Williams leaves a husband and seven children. She is also survived by two brothers, J. L. Reid and W. A. Reid, and two sisters, Mrs. Royal and Mrs. G. P. Reid, of this place.

The fall term of Wilcox superior court was convened today, but Judge Whipple adjourned court until the third Monday in October, out of respect to Colonel Williams, who is a member of the local bar.

RINGLING'S CIRCUS COMES OCTOBER 10 Will Take 85 Cars to Transport It From Anniston to Atlanta.

Ringling Brothers' circus will exhibit in Atlanta Monday, October 10. In its entirety, from the 1,280 men, women and children employed, the side horses, 108-cage zoo, 40 good-natured elephants to the pink leonardo man, choice of the circus number over 250,000. And there will be a street parade which is said to be more elaborate than anything in the pageantry line heretofore presented. Speaking of this feature, Charles A. White, the man ahead, said:

"The Ringling parade is over three miles in length, from leader to steersman. In it may be seen elephants hitched to a great India float, in which a potentate with his retinue sits in state. Another immense chariot of gold is drawn by twenty camels. The procession is headed by a team of four white horses hitched to a great hand-carved float. Every mile of this great pageant is a mile of wonders. There are larger menageries than any other circus possesses as disclosed in this parade in open dens and cages. Two-thirds of the elephants in America are shown."

"And the performance is in keeping with the parade. The great gathering of arena stars which are concerned in this part of the circus number over three hundred members. There are 120 numbers in the program, and twenty European features which have never before been seen in this country."

MR. AND MRS. HARPER HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Rome, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—An automobile accident that came near being attended with serious results happened on lower Broad street, at 5 o'clock this afternoon. C. C. Harper had just bought a new 30-horse power Buick, and this was his first time out.

He was traveling down Broad street, accompanied by his wife, when the Buick struck an electric light pole, throwing out Mrs. Harper, who, although not badly hurt, fainted from the shock.

Mr. Harper was not badly hurt, nor was the machine seriously damaged.

Senatorial Convention.

Washington, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—A call has been issued by T. E. Wilson, of Thomson, chairman of the democratic executive committee of the twenty-ninth senatorial district, for the senatorial convention for the nomination of W. W. Hamilton, of Harlem. The convention will be held at Thomson on Friday, September 23, at noon, and the successor of Senator R. D. Callaway, of Wilkes county, will be formally elected by its nomination. Wilkes county's delegates to the senatorial convention are J. M. Pinner, S. A. Wooten and W. T. Florence.

COUNCIL PASSES ROUTINE MATTERS

Will Send Delegate to Try to Bring Big Conventions.

At its meeting yesterday afternoon the general council passed upon the following matters:

A resolution to use a portion of the stocks property for a temporary dumping ground was withdrawn by consent, as the board of health has adopted a plan of taking care of the night soil.

A committee composed of Candler, Hancock and Vaughan was appointed to look after the award of $500 offered by the city for the capture of the men who murdered Motorman S. T. Brown in the Druid Hill street car hold-up. The park commission recommended the adoption of a resolution for the city to accept a strip of land at the north junction of Peachtree and West Peachtree streets for a park, provided the city take care of the place with an option of five years at a price of $9,275. The recommendation was referred to the finance committee.

New Orleans Is Adopted. A resolution was adopted recommending New Orleans as the place to hold the Panama exposition.

A petition from E. A. Neely to be given the right to dispose of all animals in the city was referred to the board of health.

F. F. Clarke resigned as election manager in the fourth ward, and J. W. Peacock was elected to fill the vacancy.

A recommendation from the board of health for an extra night inspector was referred to the board of health.

Alderman Maddox and Councilman Greer introduced a resolution to expend the $5,000, appropriated to build the Bellwood avenue bridge, for a sewer from English avenue and Jett street to Proctor creek. The paper was adopted by council.

To the bond commission was referred a resolution to purchase for a school lot a lot at the corner of Woods avenue and West Peachtree streets for $14,820.

To Get Conventions. A resolution by Councilman Winn was adopted appropriating $100 for a member of council, to be appointed by the mayor, to be a part of a committee to attend the convention of the National Good Roads convention at St. Louis in order that the convention may be secured for Atlanta next year.

A resolution by Councilman Chambers and Councilman Evans was adopted calling for the appointment by the mayor of a committee to secure, if possible, the national democratic convention in 1912.

A resolution was adopted, council only voting, to increase the wages of employees of the public works department 10 per cent.

Must Put Down Smooth Pavement. A majority report of a special committee was adopted requiring the A. E. & A. railroad to lay a smooth pavement, not Belgian Block, on Haynes street between West Hunter and Rhodes streets. The company was relieved of its present $50,000 bond, but will be required to give another bond of $25,000.

A committee composed of Baker, Baskin and Dent was appointed to look after the widening of West Hunter street between Ashby and Gordon streets.

An ordinance from the tax committee was adopted requiring all ice sellers in stores or from wagons to secure a permit from the committee and then to register with the city clerk.

To the ordinance committee was referred a recommendation from the board of health requiring that milk be kept at 50 degrees in temperature. A resolution to make the pay of city detectives $100 a month was referred to the finance committee.

CHAUFFEUR GIVEN FINE FOR SPEEDING PAST CAR

A Street Car Had Stopped to Discharge Some Passengers.

Charged with speeding past a street car that had stopped to discharge passengers at Peachtree and Linden streets Sunday night, R. B. Haney, a chauffeur, was arraigned before Judge Nash Broyles, in police court, yesterday afternoon, and fined $25 and costs.

Darwin G. Jones, his son-in-law and Eugene Wachendorf were passengers who alighted at the station and testified that Haney nearly ran them all down.

"He just whizzed by me," declared Mr. Jones. "I estimated that he was going 30 miles per hour; I had to jump out of the way, and came very near being knocked over."

Mr. Wachendorf put the speed conservatively, he said, at 15 miles. The law is that a chauffeur must slow up and be ready to stop on the instant when passengers are getting on and off a street car. Haney stated that he was going only three miles per hour, and that his engines were making a noise that indicated the speed alleged.

NO APPOINTMENT YET, SAYS HUDSON

Commissioner of Agriculture Talks of Oil Inspector Situation.

According to a statement made yesterday afternoon by Commissioner of Agriculture T. G. Hudson, there has been no appointment for oil inspector of Fulton county for the next two years, beginning October 1.

Mr. Hudson has just returned from Cincinnati and was asked about the report published in The Constitution Saturday morning to the effect that he has reappointed Shelby Smith as oil inspector for Fulton county, after promising that position to Frank C. Davis, a well-known real estate man. It was reported that Mr. Hudson had promised the office to Mr. Davis prior to the gubernatorial election, and that he would appoint Mr. Davis, who was a supporter of the governor. The report had it, further, that since the election, Mr. Hudson has signified his intention of reappointing Shelby Smith, who was a strong supporter of the successful gubernatorial candidate, Governor-elect Hoke Smith.

"I have made no appointment to the office of oil inspector," said Mr. Hudson, "and any reports to the contrary are incorrect. I now have under investigation some matters in connection with the appointment, and I will probably have a statement to make in regard to it within a few days."

A Word About "Strictly Net Cash"

That's the slogan you see in our advertisements, on our printed matter and in the letters we write.

More than that: it is the policy we carry out with strict and unswerving steadiness.

We've been doing it for a number of years and it pays.

It pays us, and especially it pays our customers. Why?

Because it means the elimination of all collection costs; of the expensive and profit-swamping machinery of "carrying accounts;" of the heavy, cumbersome and costly equipment essential to the credit system.

Cut out all these expenses and you can give your customers prices that are shorn of extras. You can go to rock bottom.

That's what we do. Test us on anything in groceries.

SOCIETY

BRILLIANT SOCIAL FUNCTIONS IN HONOR COL. AND MRS. LOWRY

Knoxville, Tenn., September 19.—(Special.)—The visit of Colonel and Mrs. Robert J. Lowry, of Atlanta, to the Appalachian exposition is the occasion of a series of brilliant social functions. Their friends on the exposition board and Colonel Lowry's boyhood friends, many of whom he has not seen for fifty years, are bidding him welcome to his native state.

Colonel and Mrs. Lowry arrived Sunday night, and are accompanied by Mrs. Fannie Lowry Porter, Mrs. Edward H. Barnes, Mrs. W. P. Nicolson, Judge William T. Newman and M. O. Markham. At 1 o'clock today they were guests of honor at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hall, to which forty guests were invited. The decorations were in pink, and most artistic. Mrs. Hall was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Mrs. Thomas; her sister, Mrs. McMillan; her niece, Miss Condon; also by Mrs. William J. Oliver, Miss Mary Temple and Miss Crozier.

Tonight Colonel and Mrs. Lowry entertained at a reception and banquet at the Hotel Atkin in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Oliver and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hall. They were assisted in receiving by Miss Mary Temple, chairman of the ladies' reception committee of the exposition, and by Mr. David Chapman, of the men's board.

One hundred guests were seated at supper, in parties of eight, each table having as a centerpiece red flowers and fern. There were palms effectively used, and an orchestra presented a bright musical program.

During the banquet Colonel Lowry expressed his pleasure at being in his native state and in the success for the exposition. Mr. W. J. Oliver expressed the appreciation of the board in Colonel Lowry's visit, and Judge Sanford proposed an elegant toast to the ladies.

On Tuesday Mrs. Edward Sanford and Mrs. Samuel Shields entertained thirty-six guests at luncheon for Colonel and Mrs. Lowry, Colonel and Mrs. Tyson entertained for them later at tea. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver have invited forty guests to meet Colonel and Mrs. Lowry at dinner Wednesday evening.

Dinner Party.

A handsome entertainment on Wednesday night will be the dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. John W. Zuber will entertain at their attractive country home, in compliment to Miss Benckart, of Lexington, Ky., the guest of Mrs. L. J. Daniel.

The guests will include Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Jolly, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Methvin, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Daniel, Miss Benckart, Miss Louise Mell, Miss Minnie Daniel, Dr. Stallings, Dr. Silverman, Mr. Justin Kuss, Mr. H. C. Fairman.

To Mrs. Wyeth.

Mrs. Louis Gholstin has invited six ladies to meet Mrs. J. O. Mathewson's guest, Mrs. Marlborough Wyeth, of Washington, informally, at 5 o'clock tea this afternoon at the Driving Club.

Matinee Party.

Mrs. P. A. Methvin's matinee party on Thursday afternoon at the Forsyth will be a compliment to Miss Lilye Benckart, of Lexington, Ky., who is visiting Mrs. L. J. Daniel. The party will include Miss Benckart, Mrs. Daniel, Miss Minnie Daniel, Mrs. S. C. Dobbs, Mrs. John W. Zuber.

Bagwell-Benson.

The marriage of Miss Effie Mae Bagwell and Mr. W. Frank Benson, of Gainesville, took place at the home of the bride in Flower Branch Sunday at 4:30, Dr. B. J. W. Graham, of Atlanta, officiating.

The decorations were of ferns and yellow plants. The bride wore a coat suit of blue with hat to match.

Among the out-of-town guests invited were Miss Kathleen Gower, of Gainesville; Miss Jessie Meaders, of Greenville; Miss Gertrude Benson, of Cumming; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rowe, of Buford; Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Andrews, of Rome; Mr. and Mrs. J. Patterson, of Cumming; and Miss Sue and Rose

Rice, of Atlanta; Messrs. Edward and Claude Meaders, of Greenville. Mr. and Mrs. Benson left immediately after the ceremony for their new home in Gainesville.

Mr. Riley Entertains.

Mr. Frederick Riley entertained a few of his friends Friday night at the lovely new home of Mrs. Roland Torrence in West End. Numerous games were enjoyed during the evening. Misses Elmira Grow and Miss George furnished music for the evening. At a late hour fruits, candies, cakes and ices were served.

Those invited were Misses Etta Lee Calvert, Myrtle Gann, Irene George, Louise Calvert, Lallah Moncrief, Ada Lee, Agnes George, Elmira Grow, Messrs. Phillips, Spills, Terrell, Riley, Roberts, Williams, Roland, Lee and Cherry.

Birthday Party.

Little Miss Thelma Mae Huggins entertained twenty of her friends Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 at her home, 500 Pulliam street.

The house was beautifully decorated for the event, the color scheme of pink and white being carried out.

Games of various kinds were enjoyed, after which the little folks were invited into the dining room, where delightful refreshments were served. The table, in the shape of a "T," had for its decorations pink and white roses and pink candles. The birthday cake was adorned with four candles, and the ices were in pink and white. Streamers were drawn from the chandelier to the corners of the room, forming an immense canopy of pink. The electric lights were shaded in pink roses.

Those invited were Misses Ruth Mann, Katherine Holley, Cottle Johnston, Mary Keel, Virginia Paschal, Fannie Mae Cook and Masters Lamar, Paul, Harold Harris, Paul and Herman Chapman, Onie and Roy Brown, Kenneth Brown, Claude Lyle, Joe Atkinson, Richard Paschal, Morris Atkinson, Tallmage Campbell, Hugo Johnston and Edward Maxwell.

To Mrs. Fitten.

Mrs. Lowry Arnold will entertain at bridge this morning at her home at East Lake, in compliment to Mrs. John Fitten, who will soon close her East Lake cottage to spend the winter in the city.

Matinee Party.

Miss Madge Malone will give a matinee party Thursday in compliment to Miss Marie Bridwell's guest, Miss Skeffington, of Illinois.

Miss Falks' Tea.

A pretty compliment to Miss Effie Falks, whose marriage to Mr. J. T. Owens takes place on Thursday, was the afternoon tea given yesterday by her sister, Miss Jennie Falks, at her home on Pine street.

Yellow and white were the colors obtaining in artistic decorative detail, and this same combination was continued in dainty refreshments.

The hostess wore a becoming foulard gown in black and white, with a trimming of Irish lace, and the bride-elect was charming in gray rajah silk and lace.

Miss Nina Falks and Mrs. Chancellor Thornton assisted in entertaining, and Miss Hazel Hinman and Miss Hazel Falks served punch.

To Miss Skeffington.

Miss Marie Bridwell's card party Wednesday afternoon will be a compliment to her guest, Miss Ida Skeffington, of Illinois.

Invited to meet her will be Misses Lucile Ray, Hazel Ray, May Bickers, Lila Harris, Kathleen Douglas, Lebie Ewing, Lizzie Eshkine, Edith Dunson, Madge Malone, Mary Kendrick, Daisy Le Craw, Elizabeth Richardson, Louise Lipscomb, Annie Trotter, Cecelia Valentina, Emily Willingham, Frances Stocks, Emma Corley, Bessie Dyer, Bernice Schuessler.

Miss Wood's Recital.

Miss Annabelle Wood's recital on Friday evening at Cable hall will be her first appearance in public since the completion of advanced study in Chicago, and her program is an interesting one. Notable numbers are the Grieg Sonata and a group by Debussy, one of the most conspicuous of the modern French composers.

To Mrs. Patterson.

Mrs. George J. Dexter invited a few ladies informally yesterday afternoon for 5 o'clock tea at the Driving Club to meet Mrs. John L. Patterson, of North Carolina, who is visiting her parents, Judge and Mrs. W. T. Newman.

To Misses Gunby.

Miss Emma Kate Amorous will entertain informally at bridge this morning in compliment to Misses Dorothy and Daphne Gunby, of Tampa, Fla., the guests of Mrs. Clark Howell, Sr. The other guests will be Misses Annie Caverly, Sallie Cobb Johnson, Charles Owens, Nina Gentry, and Lottie Wily.

Mrs. Slaton's Luncheon.

Mrs. John Marshall Slaton will entertain at luncheon today at her home on Peachtree road in compliment to Mrs. John L. Patterson, of North Carolina, who is visiting her parents, Judge and Mrs. W. T. Newman.

Invited to meet Mrs. Patterson are Mrs. Don A. Pardee, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. Edward Inman, Mrs. Harbman, of Athens, Mrs. James D. Robinson, Mrs. Henry Barnes, Mrs. W. D. Grant, Mrs. Walter Howard.

To Miss Benckart.

Enjoyable among the series of entertainments this week in compliment to Miss Lilye Benckart, of Lexington, Ky., who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Daniel, will be a theater party to be given at the Grand Friday night by Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Hardin. Their guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Daniel, Miss Benckart and Dr. Copeland.

On Saturday evening Dr. Copeland will entertain a party for Miss Benckart at the dinner-dance at East Lake.

To Miss Katie Lee.

Miss Eugenia Harper entertained delightfully yesterday afternoon at her home in West End in compliment to Miss Katie Lee, inviting to meet her the following guests: Misses Carrie Sassnett, Katie Johnston, Lillian Flynn, Olive Shropshire, Mildred Converse, Mrs. Arthur Dyer, Mrs. Russell Bridges, Misses Nan Stephens, Lizzie and May Richardson, Frances Connally, Annabelle Wood, Nora Belle Rosser, Mrs. Joseph Eby, Miss Alma Pace, Miss Frances Simpson, Mrs. Joseph Arnold, Mrs. James M. The Fashionable Trim Outlines As Represented in Keely's Suits

In women's tailored wear the stylists have emphasized close, trim outlines; and making that the fundamental style idea they have created many models, as beautiful as they are practical.

All fabric weaves are in favor, with the fancy basket cloths and English and Scotch mixtures in the ascendency. For the dressy tailored suit, however, chiffon broadcloth holds first place.

To example these styles in several phases of tailored wear, we mention five or six lines in this advertisement.

There are many others to be noted on your visit to the store. You will do well to see them all before buying.

Suits at $25.00 to $30.00

Fancy basket weaves, Scotch mixtures, diagonal serges, two-tone diagonals and plain broadcloths are the materials of these suits. All are plainly tailored, with 26, 28 and 30-inch coats, most of which have the hand-turned revers, messaline-lined. The skirts to these suits are all cut in the new shapes, and are from 2-2 to 3 yards wide. The regulation pleated skirts is also shown--some women won't have any other cut.

In strictly plain tailored wear, these suits at the prices of $25, $27.50 and $30 are fine examples. All color shades are represented.

Suits at $35.00

A variety of handsome basket weaves in browns, greens, grays, blues, egg-plants, and the popular wistaria; and fine English woolens in the fashionable black and white mottled effects are the fabrics here shown.

The models exhibit several styles in skirts--habit back and inverted pleat. All are close-fitting, in the new French modes. Coats are the new short styles, expressing long, slim lines. All are beautifully tailored, and richly lined.

We are showing all the new lines in one-piece dresses, designed for afternoon and dinner wear. The collection is comprehensive, including everything in medium and fine grades.

KEELY'S

Suits at $40.00 and $45.00

In these suits at $40 and $45 the very best quality of chiffon broadcloth is used, and also many imported novelties.

A beautiful braiding is shown on many of the models, which effects a dressy style, suitable for calling and carriage wear. Wistaria, champagne, chocolate, various shades of mode and brown, gray, light blue, navy, green and black are to be seen.

Every new style in the Fall and Winter Parisian designs is exhibited in these dressy tailored suits. The standard of tailoring and finish is the very best.

Suits at $63.00

A collection of three-piece suits is here revealed, embracing the finest grades of women's tailored wear.

Every suit is an exact copy of an imported model.

These are the dressy, elaborate costumes which reveal so carefully the artist designer's work along specialized, individual lines.

The coats have a sumptuous lining of Persian brocade.

It is Alleged That the Secretary Reversed Himself.

Washington, September 19.—Richard Ballinger, secretary of the interior, was sued in the superior court of the District of Columbia today by Emerson B. Smith, a realty operator of New Mexico, who claims that after giving a final decision in his favor in a case involving valuable land adjoining the town of Clovis, N. M., acquired by Smith at a cost of $3,000, the secretary reopened the case without authority of law and awarded the land to another who seeks to oust Smith upon a technicality.

YELLOW JACK SIGNS
Suspicious Case Is Reported at Sabine, Texas.

Beaumont, Texas, September 19.—That a sailor removed from aboard the steamer Byland, which arrived Sunday at Sabine, Texas, from Tampico, Mexico, has shown symptoms of yellow fever is declared by State Health Officer Brumby, who returned to Beaumont tonight after conducting an investigation at Sabine today. Five days must elapse, Dr. Brumby explained, before a definite diagnosis would be possible, and in the meantime the vessel is being held in quarantine.

SQUADRON TO DEPART FOR EUROPEAN PORTS

Vessels Will Spend Christmas at Gibraltar, According to Program.

Washington, September 19.—Only a few weeks intervene before the sixteen big battleships and the torpedo boat squadron will head for European ports on their first long cruise since the all-around-the-world trip achieved by the Atlantic fleet during the Roosevelt administration.

Meanwhile the navy department, which already has announced the itinerary, is working out the details of caring for the vessels and its personnel.

An order was issued today directing the converted gunboat Scorpion, the station ship at Constantinople, to proceed to Piræus, Greece, to meet the Louisiana and the South Carolina upon their arrival there on November 21, and transfer the men and stores.

The battleships will leave their home ports November 1 to mobilize in mid-ocean, and the cruise has been divided so as to give as much division command experience as possible.

The vessels will spend Christmas at Gibraltar, and will get back to Guantanamo for winter maneuvers about January 15.

NEGRO MAN-SLAYER KEPT FROM ARKANSAS

Chicago Judge Refuses to Allow Stephen Green to Be Returned.

Chicago, September 19.—Stephen Green, the negro charged with killing William Sidel at Jericho, Ark., and who was arrested here several weeks ago on a fugitive warrant, was ordered discharged from custody by Judge Tutthill today. The court based his action on the technicality that Green was not named in the indictment as the murderer. According to Green's story, he and Sidel quarreled and began shooting at each other. Sidel was killed and Green wounded. He managed to escape to Chicago, where he remained in hiding until another negro betrayed him to the police.

Green was nearly out of the state, being taken back to Arkansas, when the officers in charge were ordered by telegraph to bring the prisoner back to Chicago on a writ of habeas corpus.

Green declared that he could not get a fair trial in Arkansas.

The courtroom was crowded with negroes when Judge Tutthill announced his decision. They applauded until reprimanded by the court.

No funeral arrangements have as yet been made. Mr. Ransom lived at 1037 Peachtree street.

HEIKE SENTENCED TO 8 MONTHS IN PEN

New York, September 19.—Charles R. Heike, a former secretary and treasurer of the American Sugar Refining Company, who has been called "the man higher up" in the sugar trust, was sentenced today by Judge Martin in the United States circuit court to serve eight months in the New York penitentiary on Blackwell's island, and to pay a fine of $5,000, on conviction of conspiring to defraud the United States government by the underweighting of sugar.

Judge Martin granted a stay of execution of the sentence pending an appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals. The court also reduced Heike's bail, which had been $25,000, pending sentence since his conviction last June, to $15,000.

Heike's sentence is the culminating point in the federal government's prosecution of the American Sugar Refining Company officials and employees growing out of the underweighting frauds on the Williamsburg docks of the trust, brought to light by Richard Parr's famous raid on the docks in 1907.

Four weighers for the company and Oliver Spitzer, dock superintendent, were convicted on the first criminal trial in connection with the frauds, and the weighers are still serving out their sentence of a year in the Blackwell's island penitentiary. Spitzer, who was sentenced to two years in the Atlanta penitentiary, was pardoned during the trial of Heike. Ernest W. Gerbracht, the refinery superintendent, and four minor employees of the company, for conspiracy. He turned state's evidence.

The sugar company meanwhile had paid the government more than $2,000,000, out of which, it was shown, the customs had been defrauded by the underweight operations. Gerbracht was sentenced last week to two years in the Atlanta penitentiary to pay a fine of $5,000, but was allowed a stay pending appeal.

OSTERMANN RETURNS AND WILL TAKE STAND

Chicago, September 19.—Interest in the Illinois Central railroad car repair fraud case in the court today centered about the announcement by the counsel for the prosecution that Henry C. Ostermann, president of the Ostermann Manufacturing Company, will probably be placed on the witness stand tomorrow.

Ostermann, said to be one of the principals in the alleged plot by which the railroad company was defrauded of a large sum, has been away from Chicago for some time. The announcement that he had returned and would take the stand in the present case was a surprise.

Roth, formerly a car inspector employed by the railroad company, was the only witness examined at today's hearing of conspiracy charges against John M. Taylor, Frank B. Harriman and Charles L. Ewing, former Illinois Central officials.

Roth went into details regarding the alleged padding of car repair bills at the plant of the Ostermann Manufacturing Company. He told the court that if the repairs charged for had actually been placed on cars, in certain instances the cars would have been so over-equipped as to have been useless.

At the close of today's hearing, Judge Brugmeyer announced that beginning tomorrow both morning and afternoon sessions of court will be held.

Infantile Paralysis Epidemic.

Middletown, Conn., September 19.—The board of education tonight ordered the public schools of the city closed for an indefinite period, owing to the epidemic of infantile paralysis.

Fourteen children in the last nine days, and three deaths have resulted, two of them girls in the school, and one a high school. No new cases were reported today.

HILL CLIMBING

Food That Makes It a Pleasure.

"I have a large amount of laborious brain-fatiguing work to do," writes a young lady from Richmond, Va. "After returning from the office, I have found myself so completely exhausted that I was unable to engage in any recreation or amusement."

"I tried several expensive tonics without effect, and finally noticed an advertisement of Grape-Nuts as a food recommended to brain workers. I purchased a package and tried it."

"I found it extremely palatable, and after a week's use (two meals of it a day) I noticed a general improvement in my condition. The feeling of extreme exhaustion was growing less, and strength visibly increased."

"I began to put on flesh and felt ready to enter into the amusements of other members of the family, and now after using the food for eleven months, I am like a new person. I do not have the sensation of fatigue; my brain is clear; eyes bright; skin rosy and healthy and my muscles have strengthened to a marked degree."

"I am now able to walk from the office home, a distance of 3 1/2 miles up one of the steepest hills for which our city is famous, and to engage in any amusements that may come in my way."

"I am also using Postum with excellent results. My sister-in-law, who lives in Norwalk, Conn., writes me that she uses it also, and has not suffered from the distressing sick headaches she formerly had."

"Read 'The Road to Wellville' found in pkgs. 'There's a Reason.'"

Ever read the above letter. A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

MRS. PARTI HENRICI ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Spartanburg, S. C., September 19.—(Special.)—Mrs. Parti Henrici attempted to commit suicide this afternoon by shooting herself. She was found with a 38-caliber pistol, which took effect in her side and ranged upward. Physicians were immediately summoned, but at first were prevented from making careful examination on account of the hysterical condition of Mrs. Henrici. She was taken to a private hospital, and it was found that the wound was a serious one.

This is the second attempt made by Mrs. Henrici to commit suicide within the past two months. She fled from her apartments in New York city some time ago, and jumped into East river. The woman was rescued at that time by a messenger for an express company in New York city, who was on duty at night.

Her wedding to Mr. Henrici was very romantic. He was on the staff of the New York Herald and she entered a story contest, and it fell to the lot of the young newspaper man to judge the merits of her story. She won the prize, and in this manner correspondence began. He came south to see her once, and on his next visit they were married. The couple returned to New York, where he was on the staff of The New York Herald. Soon after the arrival in New York city she leaped into East river. After this, Mr. Henrici came to Spartanburg, the home of his bride, and accepted a position as city editor of The Spartanburg Herald.

There has been no reason assigned for the rash act. It is generally thought that she was temporarily unbalanced. Before her marriage she was Miss Ernestine Patsy Vaughan and was very young. She is well known and popular.

BLACKMAIL IS CHARGED TO CINCINNATI POLICE

Cincinnati, Ohio, September 19.—Official investigation of charges of graft and favoritism in the treatment of saloon keepers by members of the Cincinnati police department was begun today by Safety Director Scott Small at the direction of Mayor Schwab.

Chief of Police Paul Milliken was ordered to present charges, filed with him three months ago by James Mulligan, a saloonkeeper, in which it was asserted that the police had been attempting to break up Mulligan's business.

The charges include assertions that liquor dealers in the "red light" district have paid tribute to the police for immunity from the operations of the midnight closing and anti-gambling laws. Mulligan has told the safety director that he paid weekly tribute for five years for the privilege of keeping open after midnight.

Other saloonists have declared that when they stopped paying for gambling privileges they were repeatedly arrested, while competitors who continued to pay were not molested.

G. A. R. VETERANS TAKE ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City, N. J., September 19.—This summer resort today unconditionally surrendered to the Grand Army of the Republic.

The greater part of the day was devoted to registering at the booths at the commander-in-chief's headquarters and meeting of the committee in preparation for the business which will come up during the remainder of the week.

This afternoon the veterans discussed unofficially the proposition for a permanent camp site to be established in some city geographically near the center of the country. Advocates of the plan say it would make it possible for nearly every survivor of the civil war to attend the encampments, because of the curtailment of railroad fare.

There is considerable grumbling over what the veterans term "unjust discrimination" with reference to rates. An effort is to be made to have a resolution adopted asking federal regulation of traffic rates to all subsequent encampments.

"The railroads of this country will grant a rate of one cent a mile for our next national encampment or there will be no encampment" is the prediction of Edward Watson, commander of U. S. Grant Post, Chicago. This sentiment seems to prevail among a majority of the veterans.

The question of changing the present schedule of an encampment every year to a meeting every two or four years is being met with opposition from a majority of the veterans.

"We will hold an encampment every year as long as we can rally a corporate guard," said Colonel Jack Hayward, the old member from Washington.

HOMER BENEFIT GAME AT PONCE

Jordanites Trim Nine Captained by Castro.

Two picked nines, one captained by Otto Jordan and the other by Lou Castro, played a game of baseball yesterday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park for the benefit of the widow and two children of Jack Horner. The Jordanites won, 5 to 1.

Fisher twirled for the Jordanites, while Harold Johns and "Scissors" Mayer hurled for the Castro crew.

Umpire George Derrick handled the indicator, giving his services free of charge. His work was good, though Captain Castro kicked at times.

Castro was the life of the game, throwing in a little wit on several occasions and keeping the crowd, which numbered about 150, in good humor.

Fisher's home run and double, Moran's double and triple, Johns' triple, Flaherty's three-sacker to the fence and Winters' single and double were the hitting features.

Castro started with a fine one-handed stab, while Burgess robbed Moran of a triple in left.

The Castro crew scored their only run in the fifth. Fisher singled and went to third on Gentle's single, scoring when Johns hit a three-sacker, Gentle having been thrown out stealing just before this.

Moran's double, a sacrifice and an error by Castro tallied the first run for the Jordanites in the first.

A single by Watson and two errors scored two runs for the Jordanites in the sixth. Fisher's home run to deep center scored one in the seventh, a single by Moran, an error and a single by Jordan tallied one in the eighth.

MARIST COLLEGE BOYS GETTING TO WORK
2 Athletics at Marist have taken on a serious study of the game of football. Track work, as a new game, needs a lot of training and coaching. Several of the boys are looking to this branch and prospects are bright. Mr. Bean, in calling out baseball candidates, is looking forward to fill the positions left vacant by some of his last year's champions. Several promising Woodlands responded to the call and things look bright.

Basketball will start about October 1 and at present the prospects are unknown, but the boys of Marist college have the greatest confidence in Mr. Bean to bring them out near the top.

George Harrison has been made athletic manager; Lynne Brannen, assistant. John C. Sloan, last year's forward, has been made captain of the basketball team. Pat C. Dinkins has been made captain of the baseball team. Carl Smith has been made captain of the track team.

TWO OF THE NEW CRACKERS SENT-EELED SIGNED BY CHATTANOOGA

Former Cracker Bought From Brooklyn Team.

Johnny Dobbs Is Not on the List of Players Reserved by Chattanooga—Luster Deal Up Again.

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 19.—(Special.)—Paul Sentell, ex-Cracker shortstop, will be a Lookout next year. His purchase from Brooklyn for a large amount, said to be $2,000, was announced today by the local management.

Justus, a young pitcher, has also been bought from the Rome, Ga. team, in the southeastern league.

The reserve list of the local club promulgated today includes all of this year's team except Manager Dobbs and Shortstop Yerkes, who was recalled by the Boston Americans.

The local squad next spring will consist of the following:
Pitchers—DeMare, Schlitzler, More, Siever, Sparks, Justus.
Catchers—Higgins, Carson, Meek and Milford, the latter to be recalled from Rome.

Infielders—Johnston, Perry, McMahon, Sentell and Hulsewit, recently bought from St. Louis.
Outfielders—McLaurin, Collins, Zacker, bought from St. Louis, and Rely, recalled from Waterloo, Iowa.

Deals are on for several pitchers, it is understood, and the possession of Luster, who finished the season with Atlanta, will be decided between the two clubs in a few days.

 NEW BROTHERHOOD LEAGUE WILL SOON BE ORGANIZED *****

Chicago, September 19.—A special from New York to The Tribune says: There probably will be a new baseball league in existence by next season, and it will not require $5,000,000 backing nor entail a baseball war. It will be a league of ball players instead of promoters; another brotherhood along different lines. It will not seek to promote the ball players' welfare by warlike tactics or by entering the field of baseball promotion as did the brotherhood, but by peaceable methods.

This coming first base for the new organization all ball players who may desire to join it, but not to make it compulsory. Only players of the higher grade, mostly veterans, have been sounded on the proposition and with them the plan has met instant approval.

It is proposed to select players on at least six of the leading clubs as each major league team.

Its object is the formation of a body sufficiently large, sufficiently representative and sufficiently strong financially to command the attention of the powers that be in baseball to the prohibition of a leader who shall not be connected with baseball to look after their interests.

The hit was made by the head through the prohibition of a head presiding over the National and American League teams this fall.

JACKSON GOT HOMER IN SATURDAY'S GAME
Joe Jackson has made a hit with the Cleveland fans by his speed, his throwing ability and his progress with the willow. In the game on Saturday with Washington Joe was the star.

In the eighth inning Eddie Hohnhorst, who was with Atlanta this spring, and who, by the way, is playing a corking first base for the Naps, led off with a double. Calahan sacrificed him, and then Jackson punched out one of those famous circuit as smashes of his, sending Hohnhorst in ahead of him.

It was a terrific smash over Milan's head in center field. It never stopped until it banged up against the center field bleachers. Joe also contributed one of his shoe-string catches.

This concern are manufacturers of the well-known brands of "Monogram" and "O. P. C." cigars. Mr. Roper, prior to his founding of this company about two years ago, was president of the Roper Wholesale Grocery Co. of LaGrange. J. H. Murphy is secretary and treasurer of the company.

WILL REORGANIZE THE SOUTHEASTERN
Anniston, Ala., September 19.—(Special.)—Plans are now under foot for the reorganization of the Southeastern Baseball Association, it is said, and the members of the Anniston Baseball Association are considering the matter of applying for a charter in the league. It is said that one of the towns in the league last year will likely not be with it next season, on account of the inability to make expenses, and Rome, Ga. and Knoxville managers are looking to this city to fill the gap. Annistonians have the proposition under consideration.

Too Much Rain for Races.
Lexington, Ky., September 19.—A rain amounting almost to a cloudburst last night and this morning put the track in such condition that the races scheduled for the opening day of the Lexington fall meeting were called off. The card will be run off tomorrow.

The postponement of the races necessitated the throwing out of today's entries and the reopening of the entry list to the same races.

The board of directors announced that the meeting will be run off according to the schedule except that each day's card will be one day late.

Vanderbilt's Lapire Wins.
Paris, September 19.—The Prix de La Marche for 2-year-olds, $800, distance 1 1/4 furlongs, was won at Saint Germain by W. K. Vanderbilt's Lapire.

 ADVERTISING TALKS. *****

manufacturer who ANTICIPATES popular patterns is a genius. Why don't you advertise the phrase you have just shown me in newspapers?

He answered: "We do advertise in the way that all other silk manufacturers advertise; we have been following custom, but I BELIEVE IN NEWSPAPERS—talking to the consumer direct—and some day we want to do it."

Here was an opening for me and I suggested to him the following plan of newspaper publicity:

"Do you know that you can employ one good newspaper in each of several cities—say fifty cities in all—at a cost of about $7.50 a line, and that you can buy at the same time a circulation of at least THREE MILLION?"

"Do you know that each newspaper in each city would co-operate with you in getting one or more good houses in each city to feature your silks while you were conducting your advertising campaign?"

"A newspaper of CHARACTER, no matter how small its circulation, so long as it has the confidence of its readers, will be A POWERFUL AID to you in properly introducing you to the community!"

"Just imagine the result from FIFTY INTRODUCTIONS OF THE RIGHT SORT in fifty separate communities where the readers of the newspapers selected will receive you with faith and will support you!"

"The newspapers that are printing daily advertising talks are helpful to advertisers and readers in so far as they arouse interest in advertising and create FAITH in the announcements of advertisers."

"It is a quick way of making your products well known in fifty communities and will stimulate your trade to an amazing degree. It is a sensible form of advertising."

"Let your first announcement be a human interest page that will tell the people in the frankest way just what you manufacture—that you stand back of your product—that you will make good."

"A page will cost only about Fifteen Thousand Dollars—then follow it up with small, SIMPLY W O R D E D ADVERTISEMENTS occupying a space of one hundred lines twice a week for a whole year, and the total cost will be about One Hundred and Three Thousand Dollars."

"I don't know what profit you make on each yard of silk you sell, but how many additional yards of silk do you suppose you will sell by such a plan? Surely enough to justify an expenditure of One Hundred and Three Thousand Dollars."

"Let your silks become known as 'MIGEL SILKS'—a name easily remembered—and keep telling people that the name stands for both quality and advanced styles in silks, and, believe me, enough women will buy them to double your present business."

The partner did not reject

my proposition. He is inclined to advertise. He frankly states that he realizes the power of NEWS-PAPER PUBLICITY.

Why should he not advertise? He will. The advertising microbe is in his system and, besides, he wants everybody to know about "MIGEL SILKS"—to know them as favorably as he knows them.

AUTOMOBILE PRICES HAVE STEADILY FALLEN Great Increase in Number of Cars Selling Under $1,500.

New York, September 19.—An interesting tabulation of the average automobile prices in 1903, prepared by the American Automobile Association, shows that the automobile prices rose from 1903 to 1907, but that since that time the prices have gradually declined. This decline, according to the association's experts, has not been brought about by any radical reduction in the price of motor cars, but by the great increase in the manufacture and sale of machines selling for $1,500 or less. In the early days of the industry, a car selling for $1,500 was rare, while now the greater number of machines sell far under that figure.

The figures show that the average price for cars in 1903, the average ran up to $2,137.56 in 1907, and since that it has decreased until the first six months of 1910 shows $1,545.93 as the average price.

There has been a tremendous increase in the making of what are termed moderate-priced cars, and a normal and healthy increase in the number of higher-priced machines.

From $1,123.37 as the average price for cars in 1903, the average ran up to $2,137.56 in 1907, and since that it has decreased until the first six months of 1910 shows $1,545.93 as the average price.

SENATOR LODGE FAINTS AFTER MAKING SPEECH
He Will Probably Have to Cut Short His Campaigning.

Boston, September 19.—Following a slight collapse at the conclusion of a political speech at New Bedford Saturday, it is understood that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge may have to curtail his campaigning this fall.

Senator Lodge has been in somewhat poor health for over a year, and at the conclusion of an outdoor speech Saturday he had a brief fainting spell after retiring from the platform. He had fully recovered last night, but the effect of his strenuous work on the stump thus far in the state campaign has sapped his strength, and it is believed that he may have to give up some of his speaking engagements.

WRITES OF CONDITIONS
ON WEST SIDE OF CITY

The Constitution has received the following card concerning conditions on the west side of the city, the communication resulting from the appeal made for this part of the city by Forrest & George Adair in Sunday's "Real Estate Talk" in The Constitution:

Editor Constitution: On behalf of hundreds of west side citizens I want to command and thank Forrest & George Adair for their generous appeal for us in Sunday's "Real Estate Talk" in your columns.

The situation is particularly pathetic on the central west side. From the old Collier home, at Nelson and Chapel streets, northward through the Taylor hill section to Kennedy street, a distance of fourteen blocks, there is not a passable street. Haynes street, the first beyond the railroad, is particularly, but roughly, paved, and drops down a heavy grade into mud and slush at Newton street. Davis street can be traveled to Foundry street, where it drops down a steep red hill of gullies. Lower street, or Electric avenue, has never been opened up except for about two blocks, and consequently a vehicle cannot traverse it. Neither has Maple street been opened up or graded, and an unharnessed mule would risk his life in navigating it. Walnut street is almost as bad, and Vine street is equally so. About the same can be said of all the streets paralleling these out to Ashby. Then a few of the streets crossing these and running east and west, without need grading or opening up, are West Hunter, Carter, Rhodes, Magnolia, Forsyth, Spencer, Thurmond and Jones avenue.

Now, this is a populous stretch of territory immediately back of the terminal station—close in on section—has been patiently paying taxes a generation, takes in Mims park and Davis street school, and with one or more streets crossed up and properly graded and paved, would be a short and convenient route from Peters street and West End to Marietta street and West-ern Heights. It is an injustice to every business in the city to have to deliver goods in and through such a section. The condition here is an injustice to tenant, to landlord and to resident, be he white or black. It is an injustice to the tots going to school. It is a black eye to loyal patriots. It is a civic shame! Yours very truly,

V. O. RANKIN,
208 Haynes street.

BUTTERMILK JUG INHABITED
BY A GOOD-SIZED MOCCASIN

Commerce, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Parks, of Bold Spring, Franklin county, have just passed through a novel and undesirable experience.

A few days ago some neighbors sent in some buttermilk. It was poured into a jug. The milk was used at the table and in making bread.

When the jug was empty, they discovered that something remained in the jug. A close examination revealed the fact that the jug was inhabited by a good sized highland moccasin, and that the snake was in the jug when the milk was poured in.

The milk made fine bread and when taken straight tasted good.

GARIBALDI FOLLOWER
DIES IN SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Frederica Cetti, celebrated painter and decorator, veteran of the civil war and follower of Garibaldi, died at his home in this city this morning.

Cetti was born in the province of Como, Italy. He was twice wounded in engagements with the Austrians, while Garibaldi was laying the foundations for the future independence of Italy.

He escaped into Switzerland and made his way to New York while under sentence of execution. He wore a Garibaldi medal, and was at one time secretary of the Garibaldi Society of New York. He fought with the federal troops in the civil war, being wounded and captured in the battle of Petersburg. He is survived by his wife and several children.

STEAMER ALGONQUIN
ARRIVES AT BRUNSWICK

Brunswick, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—The Clyde Line steamer Algonquin arrived in port from New York, thus inaugurating the twice-a-week freight and passenger schedule between this city and New York.

The Algonquin is the first of Clyde steamers to arrive in port since the Ice Line was absorbed by the Clyde.

This evening at 6:30 o'clock officials of the three railroads entering this port were given a formal reception on board the Algonquin by officials of the Clyde Line. The Clyde Line officials in the city today were H. H. Raymond, vice president; C. A. Bowman, general manager; W. H. Leary, general passenger agent; W. H. Quigg, general freight agent; F. L. Hamar, auditor; Milt Saul, publicity agent; Atlanta: R. H. Manner and A. J. Crockett, of Brunswick; of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railway; J. S. B. Thompson, assistant general manager; Randall Clifton, general freight agent; Lauren Foreman, publicity agent; of the Southern railway; W. E. Kay, assistant general manager; of the Atlantic Coast Line, Jacksonville.

Those in attendance from the city were: Judge Joseph W. Bennett, F. D. M. Strachan, C. Downing, Hon. W. G. Brantley, George H. Cunniff, Hon. H. F. Dunwoody, C. T. Calnan, C. H. Levy, E. C. Bruce, George H. Smith, N. Emanuel and C. D. Ogg and Forrest Adair, of Atlanta.

The railroad officials and quite a number of Brunswick's business men were this afternoon on the Algonquin, riding around the harbor and to St. Simons Island by F. D. M. Strachan, in his yacht Adrienne.

TO MARK THE GRAVES OF CONFEDERATES

The Contract Has Been Let by the War Department.

Washington, September 19.—In conformity with the recommendation made just before death, Judge Oakes, federal commissioner for marking the graves of confederate soldiers and sailors who died in northern prisons during the civil war, the war department has awarded a contract for the construction of the confederate cemetery at Fort Lookout, Md., where he buried the bodies of 17,499 men so far as the cemetery of identification prevented the erection of individual headstones.

GEN. WM. OATES LEAVES
PROPERTY TO HIS SON

Provides $10,000 for Statue to His Grave—Leaves Text for Inscription.

Montgomery, Ala., September 19.—In his will, filed for probate today, General William C. Oates, colonel in the confederate army and general in the Spanish-American war, provides for a bronze statue, with Alabama marble pedestal, be erected at his grave. It is to be life size and is to cost not more than $10,000.

His estate, valued at $200,000, is left to his son, William C. Oates, Jr., and his widow, the son, however, to come into final possession.

The dead man leaves also the text of the inscription that is to go on the monument as follows:

"Born in poverty, reared in adversity, without educational advantages, yet by honest individual effort, he obtained a competency and the confidence of his fellow men, while proving loyal to relatives and worthy poor. A devoted confederate soldier, he gave his right arm for the cause. He accepted the result of the war without a murmur, and in 1893 he became brigadier general of the United States volunteers in the war with Spain."

MOB CHASES NEGRO WHO SHOT OFFICER

Chief of Police Stallings, of Springhope, N. C., is Fatally Wounded.

Wilmington, N. C., September 19.—Chief of Police J. M. Stallings, of Springhope, N. C., was fatally shot, and has been sent to a hospital in Richmond, Va., for an operation, while practically every citizen of the town and community has joined in the pursuit with bloodhounds of Norman Lewis, a negro, charged with retailing liquor, and who shot the officer when he, with another officer, went to arrest the negro Sunday night.

The negro was located in his house and was ordered by the officer to come out. Lewis told his wife to blow the lights out and open the door. This being done, the negro fired at the officer with a double-barreled shotgun, a metal badge pinned on the policeman's breast probably having prevented the entire load taking effect and killing him instantly. Summary vengeance may be visited upon the negro if he is caught.

"HELP!" IS CRY RAISED BY ROOSEVELT TO TAFT

Run again if he is renominated, but he intends to leave that to his friends. He is not hunting delegates.

Fourth, Colonel Roosevelt expressed himself as gratified at a very "pleasant interview" and an "entirely satisfactory talk." He reiterated with emphasis that he will not run for governor and that if the convention is stampeded for him he will refuse the nomination.

No Warning of the Conference.

No warning of the conference had been allowed to get out. The colonel left Oyster Bay so early that he eluded the newspaper men and took a fast motor boat for New Haven. The trip was so rough that he had to put in at South Norwalk instead. Once the colonel asked the captain:

"What do you think the chances are of our making it?"

"About even," answered the captain.

Roosevelt-Taft Meeting

FROM THE TAFT STANDPOINT

On Board President Taft's Train, Albany, N. Y., September 19.—President Taft and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt met today at New Haven, Conn., for the second time since the former president's return from Africa. Colonel Roosevelt sought the conference with the president. It was plain from all that transpired before and after the meeting that the colonel and his close political advisers are not a little worried over the situation in New York state, and came to the president for further evidence of his moral support.

Taft Against "Bossism."

This president was glad to give. He declared his position in the New York state fight had been clear from the very first. He said he sympathized heartily with the fight against "bossism" being waged by the people of the state. Mr. Taft reiterated the statements he made in his letter to Lloyd C. Griscom, president of the New York county republican committee, at the time of the Sherman-Roosevelt controversy over the temporary chairmanship. This letter, he added, stated his position fully and accurately, and he was standing on it absolutely.

For Direct Primaries.

Mr. Taft announced to his callers anew what he had said in the Griscom letter—that he favored direct primaries for the nomination of congressmen and state legislators. He understands this to be the purport of the Cobb bill as amended by the Seth Low and Joseph Choate memorial. He said he hoped a declaration for such a primary law would be written into the republican state platform, and that a candidate for governor in sympathy with this movement would be nominated.

President Taft is not ready as yet to admit the advisability of doing away with conventions for the nomination of state officers from governor down. Mr. Taft understands that both Governor Hughes and Colonel Roosevelt are practically in accord with his own position, although the governor fought at first for direct primaries for all offices.

Precedence in 1912.

President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt did not discuss the question of precedence in 1912. The president has not been advised as to what Mr. Roosevelt's attitude is toward that campaign. From sources closest to the president it was said there was no occasion to discuss this subject. Mr. Taft's position is this:

He is willing to run if nominated. If his friends think there is a good chance for him to be reelected, Mr. Taft feels that they will see to his nomination. Mr. Taft's political friends say that if the American people want him for a second term that not even Colonel Roosevelt can prevent his nomination. If the people do not appear to want him, Mr. Taft will be only too glad to submit to their decision.

It can be stated that today's meeting at New Haven, while it may have been successful in its "ecumenical" effect, and of moral advantage to the Roosevelt leaders in New York, it was absolutely barren of results as to any better understanding between the president and Colonel Roosevelt as to national issues or their personal relations in view of the many recent events.

Something Like a Truce.

Something in the nature of a truce seems to have been arranged regarding the New York situation. After that in over events will shape themselves. Colonel Roosevelt himself is said today to have let drop a hint that his side of the matter "that something would be done after the elections." Mr. Taft is letting 1912 look out for itself. He declared that he has other matters of concern at the moment.

It came out at today's conference, which in addition to the president and Colonel Roosevelt included Lloyd C. Griscom, Otto Bannard and Secretary Norton, that the Taft administration is to be endorsed at Saratoga. No mention of Mr. Taft as a candidate in 1912 will be made.

"It is not the province of a state convention to nominate any man for president two years ahead," said Mr. Bannard. "Connecticut didn't do it, so why should New York?"

In this connection it became known today that President Taft deprecated

the action of Ohio republicans in declaring for him in 1912. He did not think he should be made an issue. The Ohio leaders were anxious, however, that the Taft administration and the legislative record should be made a part of the state campaign and took this means of bringing it about.

Taft Gratified by Conference.

Today's conference, it is believed, was a source of much gratification to Mr. Taft and his friends. That he said should be sought at this time and in the manner that it was, following a somewhat recent attitude of an administration completely ignoring of his administration, probably gave the president much satisfaction.

The ex-president was thoroughly drenched by waves breaking over the side of the motor boat coming across the sound. The captain of the boat, although starting for Bridgeport, put into Stamford.

"Can't you make Norwalk?" Colonel Roosevelt inquired.

"We might," replied the skipper, "but the chances are that we mightn't."

Colonel Roosevelt afterward told President Taft that the situation seemed to be serious for a time. The little craft in which he sought out from Oyster Bay was built wholly for speed and was not very seaworthy. The colonel said that at times the conditions became so interesting that he didn't have time even to think of seasickness. Today's conference had its inception on Saturday last, though it has been kept a close secret until a short time of Colonel Roosevelt's arrival in New Haven.

Roosevelt Asked for Conference.

Mr. Griscom and Mr. Bannard telephoned Secretary Norton last Saturday and asked that an arrangement be made by which Mr. Roosevelt might hold a conference with the president during his New Haven visit. This the president was glad to do. He said he expected to lunch as usual with President Hadley after the Yale corporation meeting. President Hadley was advised of this and accordingly invited the president, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Bannard, Mr. Griscom and Secretary Norton to take luncheon together. President Hadley's home being dismantled the luncheon was given at the home of Henry C. White. Prior to Mr. Roosevelt's arrival, no one in the presidential party had been informed of the purpose of the conference. It was made plain that the request had come from "the other side."

Mr. Bannard, who accompanied the president to Albany, explained tonight that he and Mr. Griscom thought it would be a good thing to get the president and Mr. Roosevelt together again "to smooth over any apparent differences between them." This applied, however, only to the New York state situation. As to the fight in 1912, there is a disposition on the part of the leaders to the cross that bridge when they come to it and to steer a long way off in the meantime. Mr. Bannard said tonight that he did not believe Mr. Roosevelt would be a candidate.

Roosevelt's Rush for Taft.

Colonel Roosevelt left Oyster Bay early this morning. He escaped the vigilance even of the newspaper men who followed him closely. He left in a recent travels, and set out in the little 27-knot boat Tarpon for Bridgeport.

The sea was choppy even then, but later it became very rough and for a time it is said there was danger of foundering. Speed had to be reduced to a minimum. Stamford harbor was made finally and then there was a change to automobile. Colonel Roosevelt drove first to Fairfield, Conn., to pick up Mr. Griscom at his summer place there. Mr. Bannard already was in New Haven, being a fellow member of the Yale corporation with President Taft. At Fairfield, Colonel Roosevelt changed to Mr. Griscom's car. Then the start was made to New Haven. The trouble soon put the Griscom car out of commission. Another car quite antiquated and somewhat dilapidated, was picked up at a village garage and again a start was made. It was in this car that New Haven finally was reached.

Luncheon at the white house had been in progress but a little when up drove the colonel.

The conference held partly during luncheon lasted a little more than an hour. Colonel Roosevelt reached the White house at two o'clock, and the president had to catch the 3:16 train for Springfield to make connection there for Cincinnati, toward which place he is journeying tonight.

Roosevelt Made With Taft.

It was nearly 2:10 when the conference ended. President Taft, accompanied by Secretary Norton, was the first to appear, and it was announced that Colonel Roosevelt would ride with the party to the station to see the president off. Messrs. Griscom and Bannard came next. They appeared somewhat seclusive and went off to one side for a conference by themselves, which seemed quite earnest.

The president got into the automobile, and then followed a wait for several minutes for the colonel, who had been putting the car in motion. He, too, seemed more serious than usual, and announced that he must "preserve his usual reticence and say nothing."

Meantime, the train was being held, and quite a crowd had gathered at the station. The president, who was aboard his private car, and Colonel Roosevelt stood for a minute with hands clasped saying goodbye, and as the train pulled out he doffed his black felt hat and waved a farewell.

President Taft, who was waiting at the station, said that he had a number of subjects were injected into the brief conference, the New York situation was the foundation for the gathering. Mr. Roosevelt's speech at Syracuse, in which he quoted Mr. Taft and Abraham Lincoln in making a defense of his attack on the supreme court, was mentioned, but only in a casual way, it is said. President Taft had hoped that his part in the New York state fight was at an end.

The question of endorsement of the administration did not come up in Mr. Taft's presence. Mr. Bannard declared, however, that it would be complete.

Taft and 1912.

As to 1912, Mr. Taft is entirely satisfied with the position he has taken. He thought Colonel Roosevelt might be in the fight against him doesn't appear to disturb the president in the least. He feels every man is at liberty to do as he pleases, Colonel Roosevelt among the rest.

There is no doubt, however, that the shadow of 1912 hung over today's gathering. There was not the cordiality of old between the president and the colonel. It was the first time they had met since the story was given out that the president had "double-crossed" him in New York, and had "sold out to the bosses" there in return for a pledge of delegates in 1912. The president felt the injustice of that story keenly, it is said, and as a result of it, relations between him and Mr. Roosevelt can never be the same again.

Attorney General Wickersham joined the president at New Haven and rode to Albany with him. Senator Crane got aboard at Pittsfield and also came to Albany. Representative Loudenslager, of New Jersey, secretary of the republican congressional committee, saw the president at Hartford. Mr. Wickersham has just returned from a trip to Alaska. It is said he had a preliminary talk with the president regarding a successor to the late General Solicitor Powers. Supreme court vacancies were also discussed.

RESULT OF THE CONFERENCE

PLEASED TO COL. ROOSEVELT

Oyster Bay, N. Y., September 19.—Well pleased with the result of his conference with President Taft, Theodore Roosevelt returned to Oyster Bay at 7 o'clock tonight and drove at once to Sagamore Hill.

"I had a very pleasant interview with the president," said the colonel, "and an entirely satisfactory talk on the New York situation." He admitted that the national situation also had been discussed, but he declined to repeat any of the conversation. It was learned, however, that they had not taken up the question of a candidate for governor of New York.

No Compromise, Says Colonel.

When the colonel was asked whether today's conference would decide whether or not he would run in the New York state fight, he replied that his position would be precisely what it has been. "There will be no compromise in any way," he said, "this is a straight fight for decency in politics as against bossism."

Questions followed as to just what he meant by his statement of Saturday that C. D. Collins, superintendent of state prisons, whom he met at Saratoga, would be his right-hand man at the Saratoga convention. He had chosen Mr. Collins, he explained, because he wanted a man from the central part of the state, who knows the situation there and will be able to estimate accurately the strength of his opposition. Mr. Collins lives at Troy. The colonel added that he had noticed in estimates given out by William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, that Mr. Barnes had placed some of his own counties in the Roosevelt column. He was too old a campaigner, he intimated, to be thrown off his guard by anything that Mr. Barnes said.

More emphatically than ever the colonel reiterated his determination not to accept the nomination for governor of New York.

He said that should the convention be stampeded for him, in spite of his outspoken opposition, he should decline to accept the nomination.

Arrangements for Conference.

In speaking of the arrangements which led up to his conference with President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt said it had been planned originally that they should meet in New York. President Taft found, however, that it would be inconvenient for him to go to New York, and sent house to Colonel Roosevelt through Mr. Griscom, president of the New York county republican committee, to meet in New Haven instead.

In reply to questions Colonel Roosevelt answered:

"Well, I haven't much to say, except that we had a very pleasant luncheon and that I am very much pleased with my visit. I can't go into the details now."

Griscom is Pleased.

Mr. Griscom was a little more communicative. He said:

"Mr. Roosevelt and myself are extremely pleased to find that President Taft fully understands the significance of the contest going on in this state. The president and Mr. Roosevelt were in private conference for minutes and went over the situation thoroughly. I cannot go into the details of what was said or what was not discussed, further than to say that I am much gratified at the president's attitude."

Colonel Roosevelt's name will be retired before the convention as a nominee for temporary chairman."

"No, I can't go as far as that; I cannot go into the details."

HOW "BOSS" BARNES VIEWS

Albany, N. Y., September 19.—William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, tonight made this statement on the conference today between President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt:

"The mere fact that Mr. Roosevelt telephoned me at Albany, and that he was looking for the support of the nation in the endeavor of himself and his friends to commit the republican party of New York to his policies. The question of the endorsement of the party for 1912 is highly important to Mr. Roosevelt. It is not to anybody else. No amount of circumlocution can belude the real issue, which is, 'Shall the republican party of New York be a party of the people or shall it remain true to all its successful traditions?'"

DISEASES OF MEN

If I have some decided and original views on these diseases it is because I have been continuously in the work for 33 years, and for 25 years have devoted my whole time to these difficult and delicate cases.

I believe that many cases of stricture may be cured with less harsh treatment than they often receive. I believe this because I have demonstrated it again and again.

I believe that Syphilis needs not only the proper remedies, but careful, intelligent methods and attention to detail in order to cure and cure permanently.

I believe that Chronic Gonorrhea causes more physical wrecks than any other diseases. I believe this because I know. I believe that nothing needs more scientific methods in order to cure, and the man who suffers from it knows, too, that I am right.

I believe in straightforward advertising and honest business methods combined with conscientious treatment, and if you are in need of advice, and will appreciate that kind of service, I will take pleasure in examining you free of charge.

My booklets, "Diseases of Men" and "Health Essays," sent sealed and in plain wrapper on request.

I have been practicing in Atlanta longer than any advertising specialist here or any firm of advertising specialists. Any statements to the contrary are unequivocally false.

of the 1,015 delegates in the republican state convention—a working majority—was made tonight by close friends of Lloyd C. Griscom, who is managing Theodore Roosevelt's campaign against the Old Guard. Delegates in thirty-five assembly districts of Manhattan and the Bronx were elected tonight. For the most part the district meetings were quiet and merely recorded the will of the voters as expressed in last week's primaries.

From present indications the Roosevelt-Griscom faction will have a large majority of the 190 delegates from New York county. In the seventh district Abe Gruber, who has publicly voiced his opposition to Colonel Roosevelt, dominated the convention. Eight delegates headed by him were chosen. This is the only delegation, however, which is regarded as being a unit against Roosevelt.
